Jonathan Evershed,2018-05-30 Once assumed to be a driver or even cause of conflict commemoration during Ireland's Decade of Centenaries came to occupy a central place in peacebuilding efforts The inclusive and cross communal reorientation of commemoration particularly of the First World War has been widely heralded as signifying new forms of reconciliation and a greater maturity in relationships between Ireland and the UK and between Unionists and Nationalists in Northern Ireland In this study Jonathan Evershed interrogates the particular and implicitly political claims about the nature of history memory and commemoration that define and sustain these assertions and explores some of the hidden and countervailing transcripts that underwrite and disrupt them Drawing on two years of ethnographic fieldwork conducted in Belfast Evershed explores Ulster Loyalist commemoration of the Battle of the Somme its conflicted politics and its confrontation with official commemorative discourse and practice during the Decade of Centenaries He investigates how and why the myriad social political cultural and economic changes that have defined postconflict Northern Ireland have been experienced by Loyalists as a culture war and how commemoration is the means by which they confront and challenge the perceived erosion of their identity He reveals the ways in which this brings Loyalists into conflict not only with the politics of Irish Nationalism but with the peacebuilding state and crucially with each other He demonstrates how commemoration works to reproduce the intracommunal conflicts that it claims to have overcome and interrogates its nuanced and perhaps counterintuitive function in conflict transformation

The Huawei Model Yun Wen, 2020-11-30 In 2019 the United States trade war with China expanded to blacklist the Chinese tech titan Huawei Technologies Co Ltd. The resulting attention showed the information and communications technology (ICT) firm entwined with China's political economic transformation. But the question remained: why does Huawei matter? Yun Wen uses the Huawei story as a microcosm to understand China's evolving digital economy and the global rise of the nation's corporate power. Rejecting the idea of the transnational corporation as a static institution, she explains Huawei's formation and restructuring as a historical process replete with contradictions and complex consequences. She places Huawei within the international political economic framework to capture the dynamics of power structure and social relations underlying corporate China's globalization. As she explores the contradictions of Huawei's development, she also shows the ICT firm's complicated interactions with other political economic forces. Comprehensive and timely, The Huawei Model offers an essential analysis of China's dynamic development of digital economy and the global technology powerhouse at its core.

Like the original Ritzer text, Essentials of Sociology illuminates traditional sociological concepts and theories and focuses on some of the most compelling contemporary social phenomena: globalization, consumer culture, the Internet, and the McDonaldization of society. As technology flattens the globe, students are challenged to apply a sociological perspective to their world and to see how public sociologists are engaging with the critical issues of today.
