2012 Dbe Grade 11:

International Perspectives on Teaching and Learning for Mathematical Literacy, 2024-10-02 Mathematics plays an important role in today's world and is used in daily life more than is often appreciated. Mathematical literacy denotes the competence to deal with the mathematical issues of life in modern society. The underlying purpose of this book is to support the development of rich understandings and practices of how an education for mathematical literacy can be realised. The collected works emerging from several educational systems offer a fresh perspective on mathematical literacy and the chapters include practical examples that teachers, pre-service teachers and teacher educators might adapt to their own needs.

Adoption and impact of OER in the Global South Cheryl Hodgkinson-Williams, Brazil Arinto, 2017-12-29 Education in the Global South faces several key interrelated challenges for which Open Educational Resources (OER) are seen to be part of the solution. These challenges include unequal access to education, variable quality of educational resources, teaching and student performance, and increasing cost, and concern about the sustainability of education. The Research on Open Educational Resources for Development (ROER4D) project seeks to build on and contribute to the body of research on how OER can help to improve access, enhance quality and reduce the cost of education in the Global South. This volume examines aspects of educator and student adoption of OER and engagement in Open Educational Practices (OEP) in secondary and tertiary education, as well as teacher professional development in 21 countries in South America, Sub-Saharan Africa and South and Southeast Asia. The ROER4D studies and syntheses presented here aim to help inform Open Education advocacy, policy, practice and research in developing countries.

The Age of STEM Brigid Freeman, Simon Marginson, Russell Tytler, 2014-10-24 Across the world, STEM learning and work in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics has taken central importance in education and the economy in a way that few other disciplines have. STEM competence has become seen as key to higher productivity, technological adaptation and research-based innovation. No area of educational provision has a greater current importance than the STEM disciplines, yet there is a surprising dearth of comprehensive and world-wide information about STEM policy, participation programs and practice. The Age of STEM is a state-of-the-art survey of the global trends and major country initiatives in STEM. It gives an international overview of issues such as STEM strategy and coordination, curricula, teaching and assessment, women in STEM, indigenous students, research training, STEM in the graduate labour markets, STEM breadth and STEM depth. The individual chapters give comparative international analysis as well as a global overview, particularly focusing on the growing number of policies and practices in mobilising and developing talent in the STEM fields. The book will be of particular interest to anyone involved in educational policy, those in education management and leaders in both schooling and tertiary education. It will have a wider resonance among practitioners in the STEM disciplines, particularly at university level, and for those interested in contemporary public policy.

Research for Educational Change Jill Adler, Anna Sfard, 2016-06-17 Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice In the first part of the book four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom In the second part each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms Combining two discourses that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices This book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice It will also appeal to teacher educators practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research
