Transforming Heritage Practice in the 21st Century John H. Jameson,Sergiu Musteaă,2019-06-14 Recent years have witnessed a rapid increase in the fields of cultural heritage studies and community archaeology worldwide with expanding discussions about the mechanisms and consequences of community participation This trend has brought to the forefront debates about who owns the past who has knowledge and how heritage values can be shared more effectively with communities who then ascribe meaning and value to heritage materials Globalization forces have created a need for contextualizing knowledge to address complex issues and collaboration across and beyond academic disciplines using more integrated methodologies that include the participation of non academics and increased stakeholder involvement Successful programs provide power sharing mechanisms and motivation that effect more active involvement by lay persons in archaeological fieldwork as well as interpretation and information dissemination processes With the contents of this volume we envision community archaeology to go beyond descriptions of outreach and public engagement to more critical and reflexive actions and thinking The volume is presented in the context of the evolution of cultural heritage studies from the 20th century expert approach to the 21st century people centered approach with public participation and community involvement at all phases of the decision making process The volume contains contributions of 28 chapters and 59 authors covering an extensive geographical range including Africa South America Central America Western Europe Eastern Europe North America and Australasia Chapters provide exemplary cases in a growing lexicon of public archaeology where power is shared within frameworks of voluntary activism in a wide diversity of cooperative settings and stakeholder interactions

55th Anniversary of Ivan Barnes: Microbial Communities of Serpentinite-Hosted Ecosystems Nancy Merino, Shino Suzuki, Marianne Quéméneur, Gaël Erauso, Penny Lea Morrill, 2024-02-09 Serpentization is a reaction that involves the hydration of ferromagnesium minerals e.g. olivine pyroxenes resulting in the production of hydrogen gas and reduced carbon compounds This reaction also leads to the formation of mineral carbonates and highly alkaline and reducing fluids Microorganisms have adapted to such extremes and robust microbial communities were discovered at several locations including the Mid Atlantic Ridge Mariana Forearc the Cabeço de Vide Aquifer the Cedars the Coast Range Ophiolite Microbial Observatory Hakuba Happo the Samail ophiolite the Voltri Massif and the Zambales ophiolite These locations represent a range of pressure and temperature conditions demonstrating that serpentization is a ubiquitous geologic process occurring at subduction zones mid ocean ridges and passive margins This process is also thought to have supported early life because of the availability of reduced products and the presence of geochemical disequilibria     New Media and Revolution Billie Jeanne Brownlee, 2020-07-16 The Arab Spring did not arise out of nowhere It was the physical manifestation of more than a decade of new media diffusion use and experimentation that empowered ordinary people during their everyday lives In this book Billie Jeanne Brownlee offers a refreshing insight into the way new media can facilitate a culture of resistance and dissent in authoritarian states Investigating the root causes of the Syrian uprising of 2011 New Media and Revolution shows how acts of online resistance prepared the ground for better organised street mobilisation The book interprets the uprising not as the start of Syria's social mobilisation but as a shift from online to offline contestation and from localised and hidden practices of digital dissent to tangible mass street protests Brownlee goes beyond the common dichotomy that frames new media as either a deus ex machina or a means of expression to demonstrate that in Syria media was a nontraditional institution that enabled resistance to digitally manifest and gestate below within and parallel to formal institutions of power To refute the idea that the population of Syria was largely apathetic and apolitical prior to the uprising Brownlee explains that social media and technology created camouflaged geographies and spaces where individuals could protest without being detected Challenging the myth of authoritarian stability New Media and Revolution uncovers the dynamics of grassroots resistance blossoming under the radar of ordinary politics
