with his opponent and rival Democrat Stephen A Douglas Lincoln spoke out against the expansion of slavery but lost the race to Douglas In 1860 Lincoln secured the Republican Party presidential nomination as a moderate from a swing state though most delegates originally favored other candidates Though he gained very little support in the slaveholding states of the South he swept the North and was elected president in 1860 Though there were attempts to bridge the differences between North and South ultimately Lincoln s victory prompted seven southern slave states to secede from the United States and form the Confederate States of America before he moved into the White House U S Troops refused to leave Fort Sumter a fort located in Charleston South Carolina after the succession of the Southern States The resulting Confederate attack on Fort Sumter inspired the North to rally behind the Union As the leader of the moderate faction of the Republican Party Lincoln confronted Radical Republicans who demanded harsher treatment of the South War Democrats who rallied a large faction of former opponents into his camp anti war Democrats called Copperheads who despised him and irreconcilable secessionists who plotted his assassination Lincoln fought back by pitting his opponents against each other by carefully planned political patronage and by appealing to the American people with his powers of oratory His Gettysburg Address became an iconic endorsement of nationalism republicanism equal rights liberty and democracy He suspended habeas corpus leading to the controversial ex parte Merryman decision and he averted potential British intervention by defusing the Trent Affair Lincoln closely supervised the war effort especially the selection of generals including his most successful general Ulysses S Grant He made major decisions on Union war strategy including a naval blockade that shut down the South s trade As the war progressed his complex moves toward ending slavery included the Emancipation Proclamation of 1863 Lincoln used the U S Army to protect escaped slaves encouraged the border states to outlaw slavery and pushed through Congress the Thirteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution which permanently outlawed slavery
