Academic Literacy And The Languages Of Change:

Academic Literacy and the Languages of Change Lucia Thesen, Ermien van Pletzen, 2006-05-16 This book is an analysis of student literacy in an academic setting and how this has changed due to political economic and social factors The contributors who are all engaged in academic literacy work at a South African university use the theoretical tradition of New Literacy Studies as developed by theorists such as James Gee Brian Street and Gnnther Kress and apply this to a case study of one university in the changing context of South Africa Academic Literacy and the Languages of Change will be of interest to postgraduates and academics researching sociolinguistics or language and education

Assessing Academic Literacy in a Multilingual Society Albert Weideman, John Read, Theo du Plessis, 2020-11-02 South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and to a much lesser extent Afrikaans but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience

Negotiating Academic Literacies Vivian Zamel, Ruth Spack, 2012-08-06 Negotiating Academic Literacies Teaching and Learning Across Languages and Cultures is a cross over volume in the literature between first and second language literacy This anthology of articles brings together different voices from a range of publications and fields and unites them in pursuit of an understanding of how academic ways of knowing are acquired The editors preface the collection of readings with a conceptual framework that reconsiders the current debate about the nature of academic literacies In this volume the term academic literacies denotes multiple approaches to knowledge including reading and writing critically College classrooms have become sites where a number of languages and cultures intersect This is the case not only for students who are in the process of acquiring English but for all learners who find themselves in an academic situation that exposes them to a new set of expectations This book is a contribution to the effort to discover ways of supporting learning across languages and cultures and to transform views about what it means to teach and learn to read and write and to think and know Unique to this volume is the inclusion of the perspectives of writers as well as those of teachers and researchers Furthermore the contributors reveal their own struggles and accomplishments as they themselves have attempted to negotiate academic literacies The chronological ordering of articles provides a historical perspective demonstrating ways in which issues related to teaching and learning across cultures have been addressed over time The readings have consistency in terms of quality depth and passion they raise important philosophical questions even as they consider practical classroom applications The editors provide a series of questions that enable the reader to engage in a generative and exciting process of reflection and inquiry This book is both a reference for teachers who work or plan to work with diverse learners and a text for graduate level courses primarily in bilingual and ESL studies composition studies English education and literacy studies Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,2008 Developing Academic Literacy British Association of Lecturers in English for Academic Purposes.
