

PROJECT 1: INTERPRETING POLITICAL CARTOONS IN THEIR HISTORICAL CONTEXT

A party machine is an organization headed by a boss or a small ruling group that coordinates through votes its members' political and administrative conduct in a city, county or state. This 1917 cartoon published by Thomas Hart Benton satirizes the corruption of political machines that could control entire city political systems. This political cartoon refers to William Tweed and his machine (also nicknamed Boss Tweed) who ran the corrupt city government of New York City. Tweed and his machine were notorious for embezzling city funds and for rigging political elections and awarding the government jobs.

- 1) How do William Tweed's men collect for running the City House of Representatives?
He was supposed to be collecting all donations and paying the rest with his own money and his own pocket money.
- 2) How do the political bosses by Thomas Hart Benton in the cartoon collect money?
It is depicted as a money bag, which is given to them.
- 3) How does Tweed's men use the money to run the city government?
They use the money to run the city government and to pay the city's expenses.
- 4) How does the cartoon suggest a relationship between a corruptible system of government and a Populist system during the time political party system?
The cartoon suggests that a corruptible system of government is a Populist system during the time political party system and it was in the name of the Populist party that the people were running the government.
