Race, Gender and Contemporary International Labor Migration Regimes Leticia Saucedo, Robyn Magalit Rodriguez, 2022-12-13 Migrant workers around the world are subject to exploitative labor practices that give employers extraordinary bargaining power. This book brings together researchers, practitioners and advocates who explore the many ways that contracted migrant workers are rendered vulnerable in the workplace. In this book, the term 21st century coolie is deployed as a heuristic device that foregrounds the deeply unequal structures shaping the transnational flows of short-term migrant workers. The term coolie harkens back to the labor arrangements of earlier centuries that involved conscripted labor, indentured servitude and contract labor across national borders. Like those of past centuries, today's coolies are subject to legal constraints inside and outside the employment relationship that force them into subjugated positions within the workplace.

Handbook of Sustainability Science and Research Walter Leal Filho, 2017-10-03 This multidisciplinary handbook explores concrete case studies which illustrate how sustainability science and research can contribute to the realization of the goals of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. It contains contributions from sustainability researchers from across the world.

Protecting the Rights of Women Migrant Domestic Workers Sophie Henderson, 2022-02-09 Migrant women across Asia disproportionately work in precarious, insecure and informal employment sectors that are subject to few regulations, pay low wages and expose women to harm of which domestic work is among the most prevalent. This book uses the cases of the Philippines and Sri Lanka to develop a comprehensive intersectional rights-based approach to better protect women migrant domestic workers against exploitation. As accounts of exploitation, gender-based violence, torture and death among migrant domestic workers increase, the recognition and defence of their human and labour rights is an urgent necessity. The Philippines and Sri Lanka are two of the leading labour-sending states of women domestic workers in Asia and their economies have become increasingly dependent on the remittances they send back home. Drawing on extensive original research, this book argues that these two sending states are guilty of structural violence by sustaining a network of institutions, policies and practices which serve to systematically disadvantage and discriminate against women migrant domestic workers. The research covers the entire migration process from pre-departure through to overseas employment followed by return and reintegration. This book's innovative application of structural violence theory as a way to investigate the role of state institutions in labour-sending countries in the Global South will be of interest to researchers from across the fields of migration studies, gender studies, human rights law and Asian Studies.
