presented to show medical and physical therapy management throughout the continuum of care. These high quality case studies cover all the body systems and detail conditions including chronic neurological, oncologic and traumatic which closely mirror cases seen in clinical practice. Each case study includes extensive medical data from an interprofessional team, imaging, diagnostic tests, social history and physical therapy information. The text promotes interprofessional education by requiring learners to consider elements beyond the physical therapy plan of care. Key Highlights: The design of the case studies enables learners to understand disease evolution, progression of medical management and the reasoning behind subsequent changes in physical therapy care plans. Questions and answers encompassing all levels of Bloom's Taxonomy, coupled with pause points and key points promote critical thinking and problem solving. Six videos demonstrate how experienced clinicians respond to real time clinical challenges with effective patient management strategies. This must have resource for doctorate level physical therapy students promotes synthesis of information across all aspects of care. It provides a multidimensional representation of the patient facilitating optimization of physical therapy plans of care both in the classroom and clinic.

Orientation on its Innovation Commitment. A Moderating Model of Industry Growth and Environmental Dynamism ,2022-09-29 Seminar paper from the year 2022 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 1 3 Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz language English abstract Companies are striving to digitize, innovate and improve their competitive advantage. This in turn heavily depends on the company's environment especially the growth of the industry in which the company is located as well as the environmental dynamism. Therefore the question of how a company's digital orientation influences the company's commitment to innovation is addressed in this paper. In addition, industry growth and environmental dynamics may moderate the effect. To investigate the relationships we looked at the 500 largest listed companies in the United States and use computer aided text analysis (CAT) as well as quantitative methodologies such as multiple regression analysis to investigate our research construct. We aim to show that digital orientation is positively related to innovation commitment of firms and expect industry growth as well as environmental dynamism to intensify this connection. With our findings we aim to advance knowledge on competitive advantage in the digital transformation and specifically on the new construct of digital orientation. The results of this research construct are crucial for both research and practice and lead to many new research opportunities.
