

A portrait painting of Adam Smith, a Scottish Enlightenment思想家, historian, and political economist. He is shown from the chest up, wearing a dark green robe over a white cravat and a blue waistcoat. He has powdered white hair and is looking slightly to the right with a thoughtful expression. His right hand is raised, pointing his index finger upwards.

It is not from the benevolence of the butcher, the brewer, or the baker that we expect our dinner, but from their regard to their own interest.

This isn't a direct quote, but a concept from Smith's work. The "invisible hand" refers to the idea that individuals pursuing their own economic self-interest are unknowingly guided by market forces to promote the general economic well-being.
