

Step-by-Step Guide to Manual Pupil Diameter Measurement

- To perform a manual measurement, the patient and examiner should be properly positioned, with the patient's eyes at the same level as the examiner's. Illuminate the pupil with a penlight, taking care not to shine the light directly into the patient's eye.
- Use a ruler or pupil gauge to estimate the diameter, typically in millimeters. Be quick and accurate in your observations, as the pupil constricts in response to light, potentially altering its size.
