• Business Environment: The business environment is the set of external factors that affect a company's operations. It includes political, economic, social, technological, and legal factors.

They are not the same, and the difference is that the former is a more complete system where the individual parts and processes follow the path of evolution, whereas the latter is a more static system.

Businesses are often concerned with the security of their data. This is especially true for companies that deal with sensitive information such as financial data, personal information, and intellectual property. To protect this data, many companies have implemented various security measures, such as firewalls, encryption, and access controls. However, these measures are not always enough to prevent data breaches. In this article, we will discuss some common security threats that businesses face and how they can be mitigated.
