The Diagnosis of Writing in a Second or Foreign Language Ari Huhta, Claudia Harsch, Dmitri Leontjev, Lea Nieminen,2023-07-07 The Diagnosis of Writing in a Second or Foreign Language is a comprehensive survey of diagnostic assessment of second foreign language (SFL) writing. In this innovative book, a compelling case is made for SFL writing as an individual, contextual, and multidimensional ability combining several theoretically informed approaches upon which to base diagnosis. Using the diagnostic cycle as the overarching framework, the book starts with the planning phase, cover design, development, and delivery of diagnostic assessment, ending with feedback and feed-forward aspects to feed diagnostic information into the teaching and learning process. It covers means to diagnose both the writing processes and products, including the design and development of diagnostic tasks and rating scales, as well as automated approaches to assessment. Also included is a range of existing instruments and approaches to diagnosing SFL writing. Addressing large-scale as well as classroom contexts, this volume is useful for researchers, teachers, and educational policy makers in language learning. 5

Corpus Study of Synonymy in English Daniel Schroeder,2014-11-24 Seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Linguistics grade 2 0 University of Rostock Institut f r Anglistik Amerikanistik course English Lexicology language English abstract Similarity of meaning is the most important lexical relation in the WordNet model and in philosophy Quine has identified synonymy along with analyticity as the primary business of the theory in meaning When writing a text about any topic one does not want to use the same word every time Imagine the task is to write an article about young people At first they are called youth but then the word adolescent is chosen These two words are known to be synonyms but it can be shown that words in English cannot have identical meaning and always are different in some way The question in this example is whether youth and adolescent are fully interchangeable They are synonymous because the OED for example defines synonyms as words that have the same general sense but they have different shades of meaning or implications appropriate to different contexts When thinking about the German erledigen one finds a lot of words in English that should be considered in a translation like to attend to settle to handle to do to finish to dispatch etc Some of them are used in different situations or have the same core meaning but differ in minor ways or in emotional and stylistic connotation This seminar paper will focus on the analysis of synonymous words and sentences Based on the notion that identity means oneness it must be understood that a perfectly identical meaning can therefore not exist between two or more synonymous words or sentences This seminar paper does not aim to prove that words can have the same sense in some cases It is rather based on the theory that they only have identical meaning if it is similar in all contexts This would be valid if words like youth and adolescent differed only in form The objective is to show by using the British National Corpus BNC and other thesauruses what distinctions random synonyms such as these may have and why they cannot be easily interchanged A Subject Index of the Modern Works Added to
