Applications Stelios H. Zanakis,Georgios Doukidis,Constantin Zopounidis,2013-04-17 This chapter describes a study conducted at the Swinburne University of Technology in Australia in their School of Business The study was to explore the applicability of a judgment analytic decision support system to the assessment of the likelihood of an applicant being selected for admission to the School s Graduate Certificate in Business Administration GCBA program The likelihood of a program administrator selecting a particular applicant is directly linked to the assessment of the likelihood of that applicant s success in the GCBA program The purpose of this study in effect was to analyze the administrative judgment process in assessment of an applicant s likelihood of success in the program
THE PROCESS OF HUMAN JUDGMENT Human judgment is a process through which an individual uses social information to make decisions The social information is obtained from an individual s environment and is interpreted through the individual s cognitive image of the environment The cognitive image provides a representation of the environment based on past experiences and training and essentially predisposes the person to respond to social information in predictable ways An individual s policies or beliefs about the environment represent these patterns Human judgments are based then upon one s interpretation of available information They are probability statements about one s environment and how one reacts to it This condition leads to the human judgment process being inherently limited It is fundamentally a covert process It is seldom possible for an individual to accurately describe his or her judgment process accurately
