Assessing Student Understanding in Science Sandra K. Enger, Robert E. Yager, 2001 This is a great book. It provides real examples for teachers, school districts and teacher education programmes to assess science standards in the curriculum. Fred Bartelheim College of Education, University of Northern Colorado, Greeley. This book is packed full of different methods for assessing science standards. It contains alternative assessments and rubrics. It supports the National Science Education Standards of the National Research Council NCR and the guidelines in Science for All Americans of the American Association for the Advancement of Science AAAS. There are also sections and ideas for teachers to evaluate their own curriculum and instruction against the standards and to improve them. Examples created by practicing teachers are provided.

Assessing Student Outcomes Robert J. Marzano, Debra Pickering, Jay McTighe, 1993 This book consists of practical suggestions for performance assessments with extensive examples of classroom tasks that help students achieve the deepest type of learning and active construction of knowledge.

Classroom Assessment for Teachers Jo D. Gallagher, 1998 For courses in classroom assessment where the focus is on how to write, construct and use assessments as a teacher in the classroom. Also includes coverage of basic measurement theory. This book is designed to bridge the gap between research and K-12 practice in the area of student assessment by presenting practical procedures and guidelines teachers can realistically implement in their busy classrooms. The text focuses on the nuts and bolts of how to write, construct and use assessments in the classroom but it also covers and applies the basics of reliability and validity.

Student-involved Assessment for Learning Richard J. Stiggins, 2005 This text for assessment courses focuses on showing prospective teachers how to develop assessments that accurately reflect student achievement and how to use those assessments to benefit not merely grade student learning. A variety of hands on practice activities provide clear guidance on how to construct all types of assessment items and tests.
