Package Contents

- Cable Modem/Router
- Power cord
- Ethernet RJ-45 cable
- CD with User Manual

Before installing Your Cable Modem

Your cable service provider wants to know your modem's MAC ADDRESS, which is a unique ID label on the bottom of your modem. This information identifies your cable modem service or, if you already own a cable modem, by linking the cable company (ISP/DSL) to the specific modem. Because this ID label is provided by the cable modem's manufacturer, it is a MAC address. If you need the modem's serial number, you can find it from the MAC address on the modem label.

System Requirements

- The modem connects the cable modem to a cable modem service that uses one of the popular DOCSIS standards - DOCSIS 1.1, 2.0, or 3.1. If you need to get cable modem service, please speak with your cable service provider.
- To use the Quick Start, you need a computer, an iPod™, or another tablet.

If your cable service provider provided a cable modem starter kit, please contact your cable service provider to make sure you are using the cable modem starter kit from your service provider, or to find the correct kit if you don't have or observed a cable modem starter kit.

If your cable service provider provided a cable modem starter kit

Some cable service providers supply a cable modem starter kit that includes either a new or used (pre-owned) modem. The kit may include a remote control for controlling the modem's web page and your cable features. (Some providers supply a new modem/router and a pre-owned modem/router, and/or you include a DOCSIS adapter. If you receive a kit like this, be sure that you read the kit's instructions and confirm it includes the Cable Modem/Router. The modem is DOCSIS 1.1 compatible, Cable-DOCS, and connects to a normal cable modem.

You should be able to find the modem's power cord, connect to cable modem service using a power cable, and then connect to a computer using either the included Ethernet cable or the network filter (see using the Cable Modem/Router to Share a Wireless Connection).

Note: Please refer to the Hardware Connection section. Your modem will be in a stage of the boot cycle cable modem with a description of the connections.

After you have installed your cable modem with the recommended web utility cable network, your cable modem will connect your computer to the Internet.

Note: Make sure the Ethernet is power up for the first time because the cable modem must make an internet connection through the communication. Don't worry (DOCSIS, and/or Ethernet modem light) before you see the boot light stage slowly green to light status.

Now open your browser and go to the website that says (check that the cable modem is online).

- If you want to connect the modem/router directly to your device, see Connecting the Cable Modem/Router Wirelessly to Some Device.

- If you want to connect additional computers/devices using the modem/router's Ethernet LAN ports, please see Read This Only if You Are Connecting Additional Computers and/or Other Devices to the Cable Modem/Router's Ethernet ports.
- If you want to configure advanced options, please refer to the User Manual or the CD.

How to connect to a computer if you don't have or choose not to use a cable modem starter kit

1. Be sure your computer is on and the cable modem is unplugged. Note: Please refer to the Hardware Connection section. Your modem will be in a stage of the boot cycle if the cable modem with a description of the connections steps need for the boot cycle.
2. Disconnect one of the unused cables in the cable modem's Ethernet connector and the other end of the unused cable to the Cable connection on the computer of the cable modem. (Note: Ethernet connection must be unplugged.)
 - The cable modem's Ethernet cable is a standard Ethernet cable with gold-plated Ethernet connectors. (If you don't have a standard, you can use a standard Ethernet cable.)
 - Alternatively, there may already be a standard Ethernet cable connected to the modem and the other end of the cable to the computer.
3. Plug the power cord into the AC IN connector on the back panel of the cable modem and attach the power cable. The power for cable modem is (Check if the power is plugged in).
4. The modem/router will be connected to the Internet.
