Apache Tomcat interview questions and answers to evaluate junior administrators

Q

What steps would you take to secure an Apache Tomcat server?

A

To secure an Apache Tomcat server, several measures can be taken. These include keeping the server and all applications up-to-date with the latest security patches, configuring strong authentication and authorization mechanisms, and securing communication channels using SSL/TLS.

You should also consider disabling unnecessary services and components, configuring proper file permissions, and regularly reviewing security logs for any suspicious activity. Regular backups and implementing a robust firewall policy are also critical.

Look for candidates who demonstrate a comprehensive approach to security and can explain the practical steps they have taken in past roles to secure a Tomcat server. Their response should reflect an understanding of both preventative and detective security measures.
