See also the authors' related book on the primary grades, Developing Reading Comprehension: Effective Instruction for All Students in PreK-2. Encountering Difference: New Perspectives on Genre, Travel and Gender Gigi Adair, Lenka Filipova, 2020-03-03

This edited collection poses crucial questions about the relationship between gender and genre in travel writing, asking how gender shapes formal and thematic approaches to the various generic forms employed to represent and recreate travel. While the question of the genre of travel writing has often been debated—is it a genre, a hybrid genre, a subgenre of autobiography—and recent years have been much attention to travel writing and gender, these have rarely been combined. This book sheds light on how the gendered nature of writing and reading about travel affects the genre choices and strategies of writers as well as the way in which travel writing is received. It reconsiders traditional and frequently studied forms of travel writing, both European and non-European. In addition, it pursues questions about the connections between travel writing and other genres, such as the novel and films, minor forms including journalism and blogging, and new subgenres such as the new nature writing focusing in particular on the political ramifications of genre in travel writing. The collection is international in focus, with discussions of works by authors from Europe, Asia, Australia, and both North and South America; consequently, it will be of great interest to scholars and historians in those regions. Engineering, 1894 Four
