

A close-up photograph of a car's engine compartment. The engine cover is black plastic with a silver-colored valve cover in the center. To the right of the engine, there is a yellow reservoir, likely for brake fluid, which is highlighted with a yellow rectangular box. Various other engine components, hoses, and wires are visible in the background. The car's hood is open, and the surrounding environment appears to be outdoors with some greenery visible on the right.
