School of Policy Studies, 2000 Throughout history non commissioned officers NCOs have played a central role in armies as disciplinarians closely associated with the welfare of the troops and discipline in the ranks Although at low levels of command officers and NCOs were allies a strong divide existed between them Officers who held formal command authority were educated to different standards and controlled every aspect of army doctrine and policy The NCO corps remained figuratively in the barracks separate from decisions effecting the employment and development of the army relationship and in the expectations of NCOs themselves The social gap between the ranks has narrowed and separation based on differences in education has become less distinct Young soldiers are more aware of social military and international issues than ever before Better educated soldiers and NCOs now expect to be involved in unit decisions and are less likely to routinely accept the idea that officers know best The challenge for the army of today is to recognize the opportunities for positive and to see that the army of the future takes them into account officers considers this challenge The authors examine the historical role of NCOs as well as the factors influencing the future army and future NCO recruits They discuss the implications for education training doctrine and organization offering comparative assessments from allied armies House documents ,1889 Trails Patricia Nelson Limerick, Clyde A.
