Mastering Modern Psychological Testing Cecil R. Reynolds, Robert A. Altmann, Daniel N. Allen, 2021-05-13 This book provides a comprehensive introduction to psychological assessment and covers areas not typically addressed in existing test and measurements texts such as neuropsychological assessment and the use of tests in forensics settings. The book introduces the vocabulary of the profession and the most basic mathematics of testing early as being fundamental to understanding the field. Numerous examples are drawn from tests that the authors have written or otherwise helped to develop reflecting the authors' deep understanding of these tests and their familiarity with problems encountered in test development, use, and interpretation. Following the introduction of the basic areas of psychometrics, the book moves to areas of testing that represent various approaches to measuring different psychological constructs: memory, language, executive function, etc., with emphasis on the complex issue of cultural bias in testing. Examples of existing tests are given throughout the book; however, this book is not designed to prepare students to go out and administer, score, and interpret specific psychological tests. Rather, the purpose of this book is to provide the foundational core of knowledge about tests, measurement, and assessment constructs, issues, and quantitative tools. Explains what constitutes a psychological test, how tests are developed, how they are best used, and how to evaluate their strengths and weaknesses. Describes areas of testing that represent different approaches to measuring different psychological constructs. Explains applications of psychological testing to issues in the courts. Addresses how test authors and publishers design and research tests to address the difficult and demanding issues of cultural differences in test performance and interpretation of test results.

Preparing Students for College and Careers Katie Larsen McClarty, Krista D. Mattern, Matthew N. Gaertner, 2017-08-22 Preparing Students for College and Careers addresses measurement and research issues related to college and career readiness. These initiatives include developing new content standards, redesigning assessments and performance levels, legislating new developmental education policy for colleges and universities, and highlighting gaps between graduates' skills and employers' needs. In this comprehensive book, scholarship from leading experts on each of these topics is collected for assessment professionals and for education researchers interested in this new area of focus. Cross-disciplinary chapters cover the current state of research, best practices, leading interventions, and a variety of measurement concepts, including construct definitions, assessments, performance levels, score interpretations, and test uses. Teachers' Race, Gender, and Ethnicity Matter? Ronald G. Ehrenberg, Daniel D. Goldhaber, Dominic J. Brewer, 1994 Our study uses a unique national longitudinal survey the National Educational Longitudinal Study of 1988 NELS which permits researchers to match individual students and teachers to analyze issues relating to how a teacher's race gender and ethnicity per se influence students from both the same and different race gender and ethnic groups In contrast to much of the previous literature we focus both on how teachers subjectively relate to and evaluate their students and on objectively how much their students learn On balance we find that teachers race gender and ethnicity per se are much more likely to influence teachers subjective evaluations of their students than they are to influence how much the students objectively learn For example while white female teachers do not appear to be associated with larger increases in test scores for white female students in mathematics and science than white male teachers produce white female teachers do have higher subjective evaluations than their white male counterparts of their white female students We relate our findings to the more general literature on gender race and ethnic bias in subjective performance evaluations in the world of work and trace their implications for educational and labor markets Kids Count New Jersey ... ,2016 Modern-school Arithmetic John Roscoe Clark,Arthur Sinton
