Level I Hot Mix Asphalt 2010-2011 Instruction Manual, 2010 ECEL2012-The Proceedings of the 11th European Conference on E-Learning Hans Beldhuis, 2012 Cyber-Physical System Design from an Architecture Analysis Viewpoint Shin Nakajima, Jean-Pierre Talpin, Masumi Toyoshima, Huafeng Yu, 2017-05-10

Providing a wide variety of technologies for ensuring the safety and dependability of cyber physical systems CPS this book offers a comprehensive introduction to the architecture centric modeling analysis and verification of CPS In particular it focuses on model driven engineering methods including architecture description languages virtual prototyping and formal analysis methods CPS are based on a new design paradigm intended to enable emerging software intensive systems Embedded computers and networks monitor and control the physical processes usually with the help of feedback loops where physical processes affect computations and vice versa The principal challenges in system design lie in this constant interaction of software hardware and physics Developing reliable CPS has become a critical issue for the industry and society because many applications such as transportation power distribution medical equipment and tele medicine are dependent on CPS Safety and security requirements must be ensured by means of powerful validation tools Satisfying such requirements including quality of service implies having formally proven the required properties of the system before it is deployed The book is concerned with internationally standardized modeling languages such as AADL SysML and MARTE As the effectiveness of the technologies is demonstrated with industrial sample cases from the automotive and aerospace sectors links between the methods presented and industrial problems are clearly understandable Each chapter is self contained addressing specific scientific or engineering problems and identifying further issues In closing it includes perspectives on future directions in CPS design from an architecture analysis viewpoint

Active Learning: Theoretical Perspectives, Empirical Studies and Design Profiles Robert Cassidy, Elizabeth S. Charles, James D. Slotta, Nathaniel Lasry, 2019-07-11 This book represents the emerging efforts of a growing international network of researchers and practitioners to promote the development and uptake of evidence based pedagogies in higher education at something a level approaching large scale impact By offering a communication venue that attracts and enhances much needed partnerships among practitioners and researchers in pedagogical innovation we aim to change the conversation and focus on how we work and learn together i e extending the implementation and knowledge of co design methods In this first edition of our Research Topic on Active Learning we highlight two of the three types of publications we wish to promote First are studies aimed at understanding the pedagogical designs developed by practitioners in their own practices by bringing to bear the theoretical lenses developed and tested in the education research community These types of studies constitute the practice pull that we see as a necessary counterbalance to knowledge push in a more productive pedagogical innovation ecosystem based on research practitioner partnerships Second are studies empirically examining the implementations of evidence based designs in naturalistic settings and under naturalistic conditions

Interestingly the teams conducting these studies are already exemplars of partnerships between researchers and practitioners who are uniquely positioned as in between straddling the two worlds As a result these publications represent both the rigours of research and the pragmatism of reflective practice In forthcoming editions we will add to this collection a third type of publication design profiles These will present practitioner developed pedagogical designs at varying levels of abstraction to be held to scrutiny amongst practitioners instructional designers and researchers alike We hope by bringing these types of studies together in an open access format that we may contribute to the development of new forms of practitioner researcher interactions that promote co design in pedagogical innovation

Active Learning in College

Science Joel J. Mintzes, Emily M. Walter, 2020-02-23 This book explores evidence based practice in college science teaching It is grounded in disciplinary education research by practicing scientists who have chosen to take Wieman's 2014 challenge seriously and to investigate claims about the efficacy of alternative strategies in college science teaching In editing this book we have chosen to showcase outstanding cases of exemplary practice supported by solid evidence and to include practitioners who offer models of teaching and learning that meet the high standards of the scientific disciplines Our intention is to let these distinguished scientists speak for themselves and to offer authentic guidance to those who seek models of excellence Our primary audience consists of the thousands of dedicated faculty and graduate students who teach undergraduate science at community and technical colleges 4 year liberal arts institutions comprehensive regional campuses and flagship research universities In keeping with Wieman's challenge our primary focus has been on identifying classroom practices that encourage and support meaningful learning and conceptual understanding in the natural sciences The content is structured as follows after an Introduction based on Constructivist Learning Theory Section I the practices we explore are Eliciting Ideas and Encouraging Reflection Section II Using Clickers to Engage Students Section III Supporting Peer Interaction through Small Group Activities Section IV Restructuring Curriculum and Instruction Section V Rethinking the Physical Environment Section VI Enhancing Understanding with Technology Section VII and Assessing Understanding Section VIII The book's final section IX is devoted to Professional Issues facing college and university faculty who choose to adopt active learning in their courses The common feature underlying all of the strategies described in this book is their emphasis on actively engaging students who seek to make sense of natural objects and events Many of the strategies we highlight emerge from a constructivist view of learning that has gained widespread acceptance in recent years In this view learners make sense of the world by forging connections between new ideas and those that are part of their existing knowledge base For most students that knowledge base is riddled with a host of naive notions misconceptions and alternative conceptions they have acquired throughout their lives To a considerable extent the job of the teacher is to coax out these ideas to help students understand how their ideas differ from the scientifically accepted view to assist as students restructure and reconcile their newly acquired knowledge and to provide opportunities for students to evaluate what they have learned
