2011 Journal Impact Factor Xls:

Multidimensional Journal Evaluation Stefanie Haustein, 2012-04-26 Scientific communication depends primarily on publishing in journals. The most important indicator to determine the influence of a journal is the Impact Factor. Since this factor only measures the average number of citations per article in a certain time window, it can be argued that it does not reflect the actual value of a periodical. This book defines five dimensions which build a framework for a multidimensional method of journal evaluation. The author is winner of the Eugene Garfield Doctoral Dissertation Scholarship 2011. Dirty

Containers: A Measurement and Cost Estimation Approach of Atmospheric Pollution in Hong Kong Christoph Heinbach, 2012-04 Globalization is regarded as the key driver of growing container trade activities due to economic development. With a technology relying heavily on the combustion of fuel, international shipping is responsible for 2.7 percent of total world emissions and ocean transportation is becoming increasingly linked to environmental problems. The concepts of sustainability and greener shipping are expected to be the prime focus of transportation in the coming decades, but the impending developments require a deep understanding of the emission impact and costs related to the inputs and outputs of world economies. This textbook quantifies and analyses atmospheric pollution for Hong Kong trade lane specific container activities over the past decade using a new methodology. EcoTransIT World, a web-based application, input data is generated from the Hong Kong Census Statistics Department while emissions and energy consumption for the entire energy chain are measured as an output. Based on the findings, the costs to the society are estimated by an advanced top-down approach with a general market price for carbon. The results certainly indicate that the shift from long distance to short distance world container sourcing for laden container throughput has a positive effect on the environment. Most notably, the estimated emission costs per container show a declining trend in opposition to the trade growth. The results provide unique trade lane specific container emission factors and costs indications for Hong Kong shipping business that can be used for several purposes such as environmental performance control, benchmarking, policy making, and the promotion and stimulation of green shipping to mitigate the environmental impact. The performance indicators represent a comprehensive picture of Hong Kong atmospheric pollution for different trade lanes. Further studies and practical tools to gather real operating data from the original source such as ship owners and ocean carriers are required in future to verify the data. This will create awareness along global supply chains and crucially support the achievement of environmental synergies by common understanding of the serious consequences from international maritime transportation on our planet. The Oxford Handbook of Offender Decision Making Wim Bernasco, Jean-Louis Van Gelder, H. Elffers, 2017 The Oxford Handbook of Offender Decision Making provides high quality reviews of the main paradigms in offender decision making such as rational choice theory and dual process theory. It contains up to date reviews of empirical research on decision making in a wide range of decision types including not only criminal initiation and desistance but also choice of locations, times, targets, victims.

methods as well as a large variety of crimes The Handbook also provides comprehensive in depth treatments of the major methods that can be used to study offender decision making

Atmospheric Pollution of International Maritime Transportation: Measurement and Cost Estimation of Trade-Lane Specific Container Trade Activities in Hong Kong Christoph Heinbach,2014-04-11 Inhaltsangabe Introduction 1 1 Approach and Motivation World transportation overcomes the distance between places of origin and places of demand for both passengers and freight Almost three quarters of the world s surface is covered by water and around 80 percent of the world trade by weight is moved in this mode Offshore trade activities confined to container trade describe a synonym that features globalization In fact transportation including these activities is the least visible critical element in world economies But the importance of environment has barely been discussed in the context of pollution performance from individual economies As a consequence trade lane confined to specific world sea shipping routes between individual ports emissions generated by economies are not precisely reviewed by government agencies In addition the real amount and costs of atmospheric pollutions linked to offshore trade lane performance are not entirely understood by consumers Environmental awareness seems to be seldom raised in our society In fact the ignorance of mankind is the most important factor due to since appropriate information is very little available Some emissions are contributing to a process of retaining the heat from solar radiation by the planet Earth also referred to as greenhouse effect The greenhouse effect which originally has a positive effect because it makes the planet Earth warm enough to sustain life is responsible for the increase of the global temperature which has quite apparent effects on our world Melting sea ice effects and rising seawater levels are only a few examples To be precise freight transportation is responsible for approximately 25 percent of the total global transport emissions equal to 1 65 billion tonnes of CO₂ per year With increasing global demand in commodities and goods the magnitude of transportation also rises essentially addressing the consumer s and industry s need of delivering shipments with different sizes volumes weight and requirements at the right place to the right time in the right quantity and to the right costs From what has been said earlier it is curious why no generally accepted criterion to allocate international transportation pollution is currently in use While diffident efforts were made to include these emissions in international conventions CO₂ emissions related to international freight are not involved in the pollution reduction goals of the

Eco-Homes Doctor Jenny Pickerill,2016-01-15 It is widely understood that good affordable eco housing needs to be at the heart of any attempt to mitigate or adapt to climate change This is the first book to comprehensively explore eco housing from a geographical social and political perspective It starts from the premise that we already know how to build good eco houses and we already have the technology to retrofit existing housing Despite this relatively few eco houses are being built Featuring over thirty case studies of eco housing in Britain Spain Thailand Argentina and the United States Eco Homes examines the ways in which radical changes to our houses such as making them more temporary using natural materials or relying on manual heating and ventilation systems require changes in how we live As such it argues it is not lack of technology or political will that is holding us back from responding to climate change but deep rooted cultural and social understandings of our way of life and what we expect our houses to do for us Journal of Developmental Education ,2015 Journal of Scientific and Industrial Research ,2015 Journal of Applied Corporate Finance ,2004 Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association American Veterinary Medical Association,2017 Canadian Journal of Fisheries and Aquatic Sciences ,2014-05 The Indian Textile Journal Sorabji M.
