Title: Moret, Seen from the Loing – An Afternoon in May

Artist: Alfred Sisley (English, active in France, 1839-1899)

Medium: Oil on canvas

Dimensions: N/A

Date: 1888

Description

Alfred Sisley's painting captures the small town of Moret seen in afternoon light. The illusion of space in Moret, Seen from the Loing is impressively pronounced. Vertical placement gives depth to the artwork by combining the overlap and size difference, making the illusion of space even greater. Sisley paints a quaint little town with buildings and trees into the background of the painting, making them appear far away, and a few people are walking along on a grassy path in the foreground. There is a small dirt path curving around a rock. The most prevalent subject, the tall trees, shoots up from the ground and appears scarcely covered in leaves. There is a bridge nearly hidden by the leaves of the trees. The sky creates atmospheric perspective and is full of clouds, seemingly going on forever. Rooftops peek out behind uniform trees on the bank of the river. Running parallel to the river is Moret. The river reflects the town and the sky, donating perspective to the impressionism of the painter's canvas. Of course, Sisley also depicts time in his artwork. The viewer can tell from the title itself that the painting was worked on during many May afternoons, but without the title the viewer would be left to infer from the lighting and shading of the artwork what time of day the image is depicting. It is not night, because the sky is clear and light blue. It cannot be dawn, because the sky is also differently hued at that time in the morning. Without the title the viewer may believe it to be late morning or early afternoon. The painting records a moment in Moret during a time of the day. Motion can be viewed, in the manner of illusion, through the people. They appear to have just encountered each other, perhaps on a recreational walk.

they were no less concerned than he to overcome the national apathy toward art and to assert its cultural importance Sir Herbert Read reconciles the oppositions in the work of his predecessors in an aesthetic philosophy that stresses the social and ethnical values of art without sacrificing the idea of individual expression The major part of Solomon Fishman's study is an examination of the aesthetic theories embodied in the writings of each critic He extracts the theoretical assumptions that form the basis of each writer's critical practice and traces the development of aesthetic doctrine as it was modified by the critic's experience of actual works of art The body of work of these writers is representative of the whole development of modern art criticism and aesthetic theory Although they display great diversity in ideas and taste all five critics were instrumental in shaping the response of the public first of all toward art in general and finally toward modern art Their work represents a unified segment of the larger enterprise to understand and illuminate art and will interest anyone who wishes to enlarge their own understanding This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1963 The American Art Review ,1880 Caribbean Art Criticism ,2000
