Art History Research Paper: Pablo Picasso

Pablo was a famous Spanish painter, sculptor, ceramicist, poet and playwright. He is best associated with the art movement referred to as Cubism. Picasso was born into a middle class Spanish family and baptized as a catholic. His father was a painter and trained him at a tender age to draw and paint with oil paints. He later rose to be a prominent professor and curator at a local museum. Picasso is known for the art movement which he started with Braque Georges which involved the dominant use of monochrome brownish and neutral colours. During the early 20th century, this art movement had taken shape and a lot of paintings and artists followed this form of art (Galenson 97). Analytical forms of cubism transformed gradually into the synthetic cubism in which paper fragment would be used to enhance the overall effect and resulting in the first collage arts. The choice to analyse Pablo Picasso is based on the fact that he gained very great admiration and acquired a considerable fortune through his art. He also stands out as a great talent, a great organizer and a fearless fee in his elaborate artistic apprentice. Generally, Picasso is depicted as a very talented artist from a tender age and contributed to a wide variety of great works of arts. Cubism as an art form attract very considerable appraisal and exude social rhetoric which fortunately embody the queer personality that Picasso was. Picasso therefore presents both the complexity and awe that only very highly skilled artists tend to capture.
