McClellan, 2014-04-02 Here's the one minute description of TQW You have a Big Question of some kind You know it's a Big Question because it's keeping you up at night the outcome is important and you don't have a ready answer There are four stages you need to go through to answer a Big Question I don't know where you are in the process so let me describe the four stages The first stage involves fully understanding your situation and your motives for wanting to resolve the question that comes from being in that situation The second stage involves separating yourself from the situation you are in You cannot resolve a situation if you see yourself as part of it You have to gain perspective by separating yourself from your situation in as many ways as possible The third stage involves letting go of something that keeps you attached to and subject to the situation you are in Something is holding you back Some fear some projection of implications some belief about what is possible and what is not possible Something As long as you hold onto these things they will hold you back Fourth you need to perceive new possibilities for resolving your Big Question For various reasons you are not able to see alternative resolutions today You need to reframe your question in a way that will enable you to apply the substantial resources you have to address each and every part of the question If you have a Big Question you are stuck at one of those four stages At which stage are you stuck McClellan provides a complete roadmap for getting from the question you have to the question you need to answer Dither no longer Commit to the Total Question Workout Address the Big Question you need to answer to take charge of running your business or your life You can move forward But first you have to take the next step Congressional Record United States. Congress, 2012 Transactions Royal Institute of British Architects, 1885 Reading Power, Revised &

Expanded Edition Adrienne Gear, 2015-10-06 Ten years ago Reading Power was launched in an elementary school in Vancouver. It has since evolved into a recognized approach to comprehension instruction being implemented across Canada in the United States, United Kingdom, Sweden, and China. This ground-breaking approach showed teachers how to help students think while they read, connect, question, visualize, infer, and transform. Since the publication of the first edition of Reading Power, Adrienne Gear has continued to reflect on and refine her ideas about metacognition, comprehension instruction, and the Reading Power strategies. This revised and expanded edition shares these new understandings and offers teachers new ideas, new lessons, and of course new anchor books to support the Reading Power principles. An ideal resource for teachers familiar to this strategic approach to teaching reading or for those looking for new ways to connect thinking with reading.
