Field & Stream ,1996-05 FIELD STREAM America s largest outdoor sports magazine celebrates the outdoor experience with great stories compelling photography and sound advice while honoring the traditions hunters and fishermen have passed down for generations      Fishing the Great Lakes Margaret Beattie Bogue,2001-06-28 Fishing the Great Lakes is a sweeping history of the destruction of the once abundant fisheries of the great inland seas that lie between the United States and Canada Though lake trout whitefish freshwater herring and sturgeon were still teeming as late as 1850 Margaret Bogue documents here how overfishing pollution political squabbling poor public policies and commercial exploitation combined to damage the fish populations even before the voracious sea lamprey invaded the lakes and decimated the lake trout population in the 1940s From the earliest records of fishing by native peoples through the era of European exploration and settlement to the growth and collapse of the commercial fishing industry Fishing the Great Lakes traces the changing relationships between the fish resources and the people of the Great Lakes region Bogue focuses in particular on the period from 1783 when Great Britain and the United States first politically severed the geographic unity of the Great Lakes through 1933 when the commercial fishing industry had passed from its heyday in the late nineteenth century into very serious decline She shows how fishermen entrepreneurial fish dealers the monopolistic A Booth and Company which distributed and marketed much of the Great Lakes catch and policy makers at all levels of government played their parts in the debacle So too did underfunded scientists and early conservationists unable to spark the interest of an indifferent public Concern with the quality of lake habitat and the abundance of fish increasingly took a backseat to the interests of agriculture lumbering mining commerce manufacturing and urban development in the Great Lakes region Offering more than a regional history Bogue also places the problems of Great Lakes fishing in the context of past and current worldwide fishery concerns

Craig,2016-01-12 Inland fisheries are vital for the livelihoods and food resources of humans worldwide but their importance is underestimated probably because large numbers of small local operators are involved Freshwater Fisheries Ecology defines what we have globally what we are going to lose and mitigate for and what given the right tools we can save To estimate potential production the dynamics of freshwater ecosystems rivers lakes and estuaries need to be understood These dynamics are diverse as are the earths freshwater fisheries resources from boreal to tropical regions and these influence how fisheries are both utilized and abused Three main types of fisheries are illustrated within the book artisanal commercial and recreational and the tools which have evolved for fisheries governance and management including assessment methods are described The book also covers in detail fisheries development providing information on improving fisheries through environmental and habitat evaluation enhancement and rehabilitation aquaculture genetically modified fishes and sustainability The book thoroughly reviews the negative impacts on fisheries including excessive harvesting climate change toxicology impoundments barriers and abstractions non native species and eutrophication Finally key areas of future research are outlined Freshwater Fisheries Ecology is truly a landmark publication containing contributions from over 100 leading experts and supported by the Fisheries Society of the British Isles The global approach makes this book essential reading for fish biologists fisheries scientists and ecologists and upper level students in these disciplines Libraries in all universities and research establishments where biological and fisheries sciences are studied and taught should have multiple copies of this hugely valuable resource About the Editor John Craig is Editor in Chief of the Journal of Fish Biology and has an enormous range of expertise and a wealth of knowledge of freshwater fishes and their ecology having studied them around the globe including in Asia North America Africa the Middle East and Europe His particular interests have been in population dynamics and life history strategies He is a Fellow of the Linnean Society of London and the Royal Society of Biology
