Reading: read the first two sections on genetic variation in periplaneta americana (page 1) of the following questions. Respond to these prior understanding of the concepts discussed in the lecture.

1. Match each of the following changes in chromosome structure to its definition:

☒ A. Crossing

☐ B. Duplication

☐ C. Inversion

☐ D. Translocation

1a. is fusion of 2 chromosomes by breakage

1b. is presence of chromosome is deleted

1c. is segment of one chromosome is broken up and recombined in different order (inversions, translocations)

1d. is fusion of 2 chromosomes (segment from one chromosome is added to another)

2. How many genetically different gametes can be produced from a diploid cell with 4 pairs of chromosomes (pairs)? Explain your answer.

Answer: The number of genetically different gametes that can be produced is equal to 2^n where n is total number of chromosomes pairs. In this case with 4 pairs of chromosomes we have $2^4 = 16$ genetically different gametes.

3. Although you observed a combination of traits from your parents, you recognize that some traits carry the less frequent chromosomes. For example, both mother and your father's offspring may have traits but inherited together?

Answer: That's correct. In this case, you would see the same chromosomes. For example, you see the same chromosomes (e.g., eye color) and a combination of eye color and hair color (e.g., heterozygous chromosomes from mother will be found in the same offspring in the gametes, or, both chromosomes will be inherited together).

4. Describe the alignment of chromosomes during prophase I, write the sequence:

During prophase I, chromosomes condense and homologous chromosomes align together, called synapsis. This is a synapsis because it shows the pairing between sister and homologous chromosomes.

5. How does recombination lead to chromosomes with new combinations? Describe how types of genetic variation that can result from recombination.
