PROCEDURE

Use 7.1 Assignment: Paleoclimate - A History of Change to answer the following questions:

Slide 1: Click "Click here to see Key Concepts". Fill in the following sentences. BE AWARE THERE ARE TWO SLIDES!

1. _____ describes short-term changes in atmospheric conditions such as temperature, precipitation, wind, cloud cover, and so on. Weather can describe events taking place over periods as short as minutes to as long as weeks or months and can cover areas from extremely local to entire regions.
2. _____ describes patterns of weather conditions over periods of time of a season or longer. Regional climate varies widely on Earth from rain forests to desert, and tundra to savannah.
3. Scientists studying global climate often use averages that may mask dramatic regional differences but are useful to observe trends and make predictions.
4. _____ is a common proxy for global climate because the ocean is an enormous heat reservoir and plays a dominant role in global climate patterns. Differences in ocean temperature therefore correspond to differences in global climate.
5. While both climate and weather patterns vary over time, the term climate change refers to a departure from preceding patterns.
6. Earth's climate is complex and dynamic. Two factors had a dominant influence on Earth's climate over geologic time: the amount of _____ directed at the planet; and the composition of Earth's atmosphere.
7. _____ affects climate through the concentration of greenhouse gases, which include carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>), methane, and water vapor. CO<sub>2</sub> is of special interest because it stays in the atmosphere for a long time and the concentration varies significantly over geologic timescales.
8. While Earth's climate has fluctuated, the natural patterns of change are very slow. The release of carbon dioxide by humans since the start of the Industrial Revolution has caused alarmingly rapid climate change that far exceeds the rate of change during any time since human evolution.

Slide 2

9. What are the main factors that affect Earth's climate?

Slide 3: Click the image and watch the video.

10. Solar radiation and the chemical composition of the atmosphere control Earth's temperature through a phenomenon called the _____.
11. List three greenhouse gases:
12. According to the video with Dr. Dan Schrag, which of the three greenhouse gases acts like an amplifier but we don't talk about it much as a greenhouse gas?
