New Directions in Assessing Historical Thinking

Kadriye Ercikan, Peter Seixas, 2015-02-20 New technologies have radically transformed our relationship to information in general and to little bits of information in particular The assessment of history learning which for a century has valued those little bits as the centerpiece of its practice now faces not only an unprecedented glut but a disconnect with what is valued in history education More complex processes historical thinking historical consciousness or historical sense making demand more complex assessments At the same time advances in scholarship on assessment open up new possibilities For this volume Kadriye Ercikan and Peter Seixas have assembled an international array of experts who have collectively moved the fields of history education and assessment forward Their various approaches negotiate the sometimes conflicting demands of theoretical sophistication empirically demonstrated validity and practical efficiency Key issues include articulating the cognitive goals of history education the relationship between content and procedural knowledge the impact of students language literacy on history assessments and methods of validation in both large scale and classroom assessments New Directions in Assessing Historical Thinking is a critical research oriented resource that will advance the conceptualization design and validation of the next generation of history assessments

The Great American Education-Industrial

Complex Anthony G. Picciano,Joel Spring,2013-05-07 The Great American Education Industrial Complex examines the structure and nature of national networks and enterprises that seek to influence public education policy in accord with their own goals and objectives In the past twenty years significant changes have taken place in the way various interest groups seek to influence policies and practices in public education in the United States No longer left to the experience and knowledge of educators American education has become as much the domain of private organizations corporate entities and political agents who see it as a market for their ideas technologies and ultimately profits Piccciano and Spring posit that educational technology is the vehicle whereby these separate movements organizations and individuals have become integrated in a powerful common entity and detail how the educational industrial complex has grown and strengthened its position of influence This timely carefully documented well argued book brings together Picciano s perspective and expertise in the field of technology and policy issues and Spring s in the history and politics of education in a unique critical analysis of the education industrial complex and its implications for the future
