2013 Geography SI Paper:

Global Health and Geographical Imaginaries Clare Herrick,David Reubi,2017-03-16 To date geography has not yet carved out a disciplinary niche within the diffuse domain that constitutes global health. However the compulsion to do and understand global health emerges largely from contexts that geography has long engaged with: urbanisation, globalisation, political economy, risk, vulnerability, lifestyles, geopolitics, culture, governance, development and the environment. Moreover, global health brings with it an innate, powerful and politicising spatial logic that is only now starting to emerge as an object of enquiry. This book aims to draw attention to and showcase the wealth of existing and emergent geographical contributions to what has recently been termed critical global health studies. Geographical perspectives this collection argues are essential to bringing new and critical perspectives to bear on the inherent complexities and interconnectedness of global health problems and purported solutions. Thus rather than rehearsing the frequent critique that global health is more a set of problems than a coherent disciplinary approach to ameliorating the health of all and redressing global bio-inequalities, this collection seeks to explore what these problems might represent and the geographical imaginaries inherent in their constitution. This unique volume of geographical writings on global health not only deepens social scientific engagements with health itself but in so doing brings forth a series of new conceptual, methodological and empirical contributions to social scientific multidisciplinary scholarship.

Fostering Transformative Research in the Geographical Sciences National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Earth Sciences and Resources, Geographical Sciences Committee, Committee on Identifying Transformative Research in the Geographical Sciences, 2019-04-22 The central purpose of all research is to create new knowledge. In the geographical sciences this is driven by a desire to create new knowledge about the relations between space, place and the anthropogenic and non-anthropogenic features and processes of the Earth. But some research goes beyond these modest aims and creates new opportunities for further research or affects the process of knowledge acquisition more broadly or changes the way other researchers in a domain think about the world and go about their business. Due to its positive impacts, transformative research can be regarded as inherently having greater value than more conventional research and funding agencies clearly regard transformative research as something to be encouraged and funded through special programs. Assessments of transformative research funding initiatives are few and provide a mixed picture of their effectiveness. The challenge is whether transformative research can be identified at the time it is proposed rather than after it has been conducted, communicated and its influence on the discipline has become clear. Fostering Transformative Research in the Geographical Sciences reviews how transformative research has emerged in the past, what its early markers were and makes recommendations for how it can be nurtured in the future.

Handbook on the Geographies of Money and Finance Ron Martin, Jane Pollard, 2017-03-31 The aim of this timely work, which appears in the wake of the worst global financial crisis since the late 1920s, is to bring together high quality research based contributions from leading international scholars involved in constructing a geographical perspective on money Topics covered include the crisis the spatial circuits of finance regulation mainstream financial markets banking equity etc through to the various alternative and disruptive forms of money that have arisen in recent years It will be of interest to geographers political scientists sociologists economists planners and all those interested in how money shapes and reshapes socio economic space and conditions local and regional development

Students of Color and the Achievement Gap Richard R. Valencia,2015-03-05 Students of Color and the Achievement Gap is a comprehensive landmark analysis of an incontrovertible racialized reality in U S K 12 public education the relentless achievement gap between low socioeconomic students of color and their economically advantaged White counterparts Award winning author and scholar Richard Valencia provides an authoritative and systemic treatment of the achievement gap focusing on Black and Latino Latina students He examines the societal and educational factors that help to create and maintain the achievement gap by drawing from critical race theory an asset based perspective and a systemic inequality approach By showing how racialized opportunity structures in society and schools ultimately result in racialized patterns of academic achievement in schools Valencia shows how the various indicators of the achievement gap are actually symptoms of the societal and school quality gaps Following each of these concerns Valencia provides a number of reform suggestions that can lead to systemic transformations of K 12 education Students of Color and the Achievement Gap makes a persuasive and well documented case that school success for students of color and the empowerment of their parents can only be fully understood and realized when contextualized within broader political economic and cultural frameworks
