English Language and Literature Teaching in India S. R. Ganguly, L. S. Ramaiah, 2000 Description English came to India with the East India Company in the seventeenth century Lord Wellesley consolidated the rule of the East India Company around 1820 with his victories over the Marathas and Tipu Sultan Hence the times were propitious for the introduction of English language in India in education and administration The two landmarks for the English Language Teaching in India were the famous Minute on Indian Education 1835 by Thomas Babington Macaulay and The Wood s Despatch 1858 by Charles Wood Thereafter English became the most important subject of higher study in India Much was written about the study and teaching of English Language and Literature in India both by the natives and English men English Language teaching even after achieving Independence 1947 is continuing as an important subject of study as India s window on the world In spite of the importance of the subject there has been no bibliographical control Bibliography and documentation are important tools to provide the total intellectual output that was written and published in the field They reveal the strengths and weaknesses of the subject They are the pathfinders for the further study and research of the study Lack of these tools is a bane to the teachers and scholars There is no bibliography so far on English Language and Literature teaching in India The editors with their long experience at CIEFL undertook this arduous work to fill in the gap It is a happy thing that this reference tool is published on the occasion of the completion of 40 years of the establishment of the Central Institute of English and Foreign Languages Hyderabad and the Silver Jubilee of its deemed university status It is hoped that this bibliography will be of great help to teachers students and scholars in the field of ELLT

Mentoring for the Spanish Speaking Nurse Dr. Tracey Soper, 2017-11-24 Research Paper postgraduate from the year 2017 in the subject Communications Intercultural Communication grade 4 0 course Practicum language English abstract The purpose of this quantitative project was to examine if the implementation of a mentoring program for Spanish speaking nurses facilitated improvement in communication This project focused on answering did the improved communication resulting from the mentoring program lead to improved patient interactions and ultimately improved patient satisfaction as evidenced by their Hospital Consumer Assessment of Healthcare Providers and Systems survey results The project studied 78 nurses randomly selected from the nurses on a Southwest telemetry unit Nurses were then assigned the role of mentor or mentee To qualify as a mentor the nurse had to speak fluent English have an above average employment evaluation The director of the unit approved the mentor mentee assignments The communication section of the HCAHPS survey was compared from the time frame in 2016 to the exact same time frame in the year previously A statistical analysis of the data revealed there was no difference in communication by nurses based on the mentor mentee program outcomes as demonstrated on the HCAHPS survey results It can be concluded that the mentor program may not be cost and time effective The study recommends that hospital educators formulate policies that support effective communication of nurses while also considering the efficient use of nurses time and institutional financial resources El Paso Texas is fewer than five miles from the United States Mexico border and 81 2% of its residents identify as Hispanic Many of these residents speak Spanish as their first language the same is true for nurses working in the city and its surrounding areas Approximately 80% of the nurses in a given unit at the Southeastern Hospital speak Spanish and 90% of the patients are English speaking Patient satisfaction measured by the HCAHPS is low and for this hospital it appears to result from the number of Spanish speaking nurses that serve patients in these units Evidence suggests that difficulty communicating with patients is common for Spanish speaking nurses and those that speak other non English languages The result is a high turnover rate among nurses as well as poor patient outcomes and satisfaction these results are consistent with what has been observed at Southeastern Hospital

Thesis in the subject Didactics for the subject English Miscellaneous language English abstract This paper aims to gather evidence and improve existing knowledge about the factors that influence EFL students attitudes towards plurilingualism as well as to investigate the extent to which EFL students attitudes towards EFL learning foster or hinder plurilingualism An ideal way to investigate these questions would be through interviews surveys or classroom observations However I believe that social science research should not be limited to primary data especially during a pandemic when schools and children are overwhelmed by social distancing and the overuse of virtual learning Therefore in this paper I examine existing empirical studies on language learning to answer the research questions EFL stands for English as a foreign language This term is most commonly used for students whose first language is not English and who learn English while living in their home country The term monolingual in this paper refers to those who speak the language of their nation as their mother tongue A bilingual person is someone who can speak two languages at a high level and a multilingual person is someone who can communicate in more than two languages at a high level L1 refers to one s mother tongue and L2 is the language learned after the first language generally after the mother tongue First a brief overview of the transition of language education from monolingualism to plurilingualism is given Then plurilingualism and attitudes are defined and discussed After that the traces of plurilingualism and attitude in foreign language teaching learning practices in schools are then discussed To this end some empirical studies dealing with pupils attitudes towards plurilingualism will be presented and critically examined This is followed by a conclusion that includes the limitations of the work and suggestions for future research The Economist, 1899
