Dual-use life science research and biosecurity in the 21st Century: Social, Technical, Policy, and Ethical Challenges

Jonathan E. Suk, Kathleen M. Vogel, Amanda Jane Ozin, 2015-06-04 In September 2011 scientists announced new experimental findings that would not only threaten the conduct and publication of influenza research but would have significant policy and intelligence implications The findings presented a modified variant of the H5N1 avian influenza virus hereafter referred to as the H5N1 virus that was transmissible via aerosol between ferrets These results suggested a worrisome possibility the existence of a new airborne and highly lethal H5N1 virus that could cause a deadly global pandemic In response a series of international discussions on the nature of dual use life science arose These discussions addressed the complex social technical political security and ethical issues related to dual use research This Research Topic will be devoted to contributions that explore this matrix of issues from a variety of case study and international perspectives AIIMS

Linking Perceptual and Cognitive Deficits to Reading Processes Pierluigi Zoccolotti, Peter F. de Jong, Donatella

Spinelli, 2016-06-24 Understanding the mechanisms responsible for developmental dyslexia DD is a key challenge for researchers A large literature mostly concerned with learning to read in opaque orthographies emphasizes phonological interpretations of the disturbance Other approaches focused on the visual perceptual aspects of orthographic coding

Recently this perspective was supported by imaging data showing that individuals with DD have hypo activation in occipito temporal areas a finding common to both transparent and opaque orthographies Nevertheless it is difficult to infer causal relationships from activation data Accommodating these findings within the cognitive architecture of reading processes is still an open issue This is a general problem which is present in much of the literature For example several studies investigating the perceptual and cognitive abilities that distinguish groups of children with and without DD failed to provide explicit links with the reading process Thus several areas of investigation e g acoustic deficits or magnocellular deficiencies have been plagued by replication failures Furthermore much research has neglected the possible contribution of comorbid symptoms By contrast it is now well established that developmental disorders present a large spectrum of homotopic and heterotopic comorbidities that make causal interpretations problematic This has led to the idea that the etiology of learning difficulties is multifactorial thus challenging the traditional models of DD Recent genetic studies provide information on the multiple risk factors that contribute to the genesis of the disturbance Another critical issue in DD is that much of the research has been conducted in English speaking individuals However English is a highly irregular orthography and doubts have been raised on the appropriateness of automatically extending interpretations based on English to other more regular orthographies By contrast important information can be gotten from systematic comparisons across languages Thus the distinction between regular and irregular orthographies is another potentially fruitful area of investigation Overall in spite of much research current interpretations seem unable to integrate all available findings Some proposals focus on the cognitive description of the reading profile and explicitly ignore the distal causes of the disturbance Others propose visual acoustic or phonological mechanisms but fail to link them to the pattern of reading impairment present in different children The present Research Topic brings together studies based on different methodological approaches i e behavioural studies examining cognitive and psycholinguistic factors eye movement investigations biological markers neuroimaging and genetic studies involving dyslexic groups with and without comorbid symptoms and in different orthographies transparent and opaque to identify the mechanisms underlying DD The RT does not focus on a single model or theory of dyslexia but rather brings together different approaches and ideas which we feel are fruitful for a deeper understanding developmental dyslexia

The Changing Faces of Glutathione, a Cellular Protagonist Alfonso Pompella, Alessandro Corti, 2015-07-17 Glutathione GSH has been described for a long time just as a defensive reagent against the action of toxic xenobiotics drugs pollutants carcinogens both directly and as a cofactor for GSH transferases As a prototype antioxidant it has been involved in cell protection from the noxious effect of excess oxidant stress both directly and as a cofactor of glutathione peroxidases In addition it has long been known that GSH is capable of forming disulfide bonds with cysteine residues of proteins and the relevance of this mechanism S glutathionylation in regulation of protein function has been well documented in a number of research fields Rather paradoxically it has also been highlighted that GSH and notably its catabolites as originated by metabolism by gamma glutamyltransferase can promote oxidative processes by participating in metal ion mediated reactions eventually leading to formation of reactive oxygen species and free radicals Also a fundamental role of GSH has been recognized in the storage and transport of nitric oxide NO in the form of S nitrosogluthathione GSNO The significance of GSH as a major factor in regulation of cell life proliferation and death can be regarded as the integrated result of all these roles as well as of more which are emerging in diverse fields of biology and pathophysiology Against this background modulation of GSH levels and GSH related enzyme activities represents a fertile field for experimental pharmacology in numerous and diverse perspectives of animal plant and microbiologic research This research topic includes 14 articles i e 4 Opinion Articles 6 Reviews and 4 Original Research Articles The contributions by several distinguished research groups each from his own standpoint of competence and expertise provide a comprehensive and updated view over the diverse roles the changing faces of GSH and GSH related enzymes in cell s health disease and death
