Why do you think recycling is important?
 a) Recycling helps protect the environment. b) Recycling helps protect the Earth.

Why Recycling Matters to the Earth and to Us

Does your town have a recycling center like the blue recycling bin? That's where we take old things like paper, plastic, metal, and glass so that recycling companies can turn them into new things. Recycling protects the Earth and keeps our communities clean.

Every day, people throw away tons of trash, if we don't recycle, all that trash ends up in landfills, it harmful to living things on the ground where garbage is buried. Too much garbage can hurt the land, water, air, and other recycling companies have to clean up trash.

Recycling also helps save natural resources. Natural resources are things we get from nature. This means, nothing can be thrown away, we don't need to cut down so many trees when we recycle plastic we make new ones that are just as strong to make more things.

Another reason recycling is important is that it helps animals. Sometimes trash ends up in oceans or forests, animals can get hurt if they eat it or get stuck in it. By recycling, we help keep nature safe for animals and people too.

Making something new from recycled material takes less energy than making it from new material. For example, making cans from recycled aluminum takes less energy than using brand new aluminum. You can recycle at home or school or even at the park! Look for bins labeled for recycling.

It's important to use the blue or green bins like the ones below. Some bins only accept certain items like bottles and cans, others put containers back in the bin so they stay clean. Even a tiny difference like this can make a big difference. Help out the environment by recycling more trash. Recycle, reuse, and reduce to help the Earth! If we all do our part, we can make the world a better place.

Recycling Activity: Cut out the recycling poster and hang it in your classroom.

Recycling Poster:

Recycling is important because it helps protect the environment. When we recycle, we save natural resources like trees and water. It also helps animals by not polluting their homes. Recycling is easy and fun!
