6 Sentence Stories For Children:

Investigating Grammar in Autism Spectrum Disorders Anna Gavarró,Stephanie Durrelman,2018-08-21 Autism Spectrum Disorder ASD hereafter is a neurodevelopmental condition characterized by deficits in communicative and social skills The vast majority of research on language in ASD has focused on pragmatic difficulties while less is known about structural aspects of language in this population Work on syntax and phonology is not only sparse but the heterogeneity in these grammatical domains has moreover led to conflicting reports that they are either intact or impaired More remains to be understood about variations in grammatical profiles in ASD as well as the relation of grammar to other cognitive abilities The body of research gathered here increases our understanding of the grammatical strengths and weaknesses in ASD The contributions carefully elucidate the relations between grammar and other areas of cognition as well as unveil the similarities and differences of grammar in ASD compared to other conditions The result is a volume that provides new ways to think about language and communication in ASD and beyond which should be of interest to both linguists and clinicians Look, Look,

I Made a Book Nina Zaragoza,Eric Dwyer,2005 What does it mean to have high expectations for five year old learners In one of the author s classrooms children are treated as authors as world citizens and as confident responsible community and family contributors Kindergartners publish their own stories and keep them on the same shelves as books from libraries and bookstores In addition to books these young students also produce their own plays thank you cards and math problems Zaragoza Dwyer and Brownie the class mascot invite new teachers along as they take one class of children through a month by month journey of authorship literacy development poetry positive interaction and imagination This book is appropriate for both undergraduate and graduate students of education early childhood and teachers of English language learners It can also be of value to scholars of constructivist and or critical theory Targeting Maths for Victoria Judy Tertini,2006

how Mandarin speaking children's interpretation of the reflexive ziji and their use of null arguments can be understood under the notions of locality and prominence. This book investigates the interpretation of ziji and the use of null subjects and null objects by experimenting on Mandarin speaking children and adults using a range of experimental techniques such as the truth value judgment task, the picture identification task and the story telling task. The book provides evidence to show that reflexive binding and argument dropping are determined by the interplay between universal principles and language specific properties. It shows that children at the age of 4 make an adult like distinction between the anaphoric and logophoric interpretations of ziji. The former is subject to the locality condition manifested by the blocking effect on the long distance binding of ziji whereas the latter is free from the locality condition and closely related to the understanding of the false beliefs of others. This book is an important contribution to language acquisition research and can serve as a valuable reference for graduate students and researchers in the field of language acquisition, Chinese linguistics, psycholinguistics and cognitive science.
