Summary of NRP® 6th Edition Materials

The 2010 American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) American Heart® Association (AHA) Instructor Update highlights a significant shift in the approach to the NRP® educational methodology and content structure. The focus of the 6th Edition has changed from a slide-and-script format to a flexible format that includes self-study of the handbook and a required online assessment prior to test. The 6th Edition (classroom course) will focus on high-level skills learning, simulation-based learning, and developing consensus with the associated resuscitation team.

Handbook of Resuscitation Resources (HRR) (2010), 2nd Edition

The handbook of resuscitation resources includes a completely revised Handbook of Resuscitation Resources at 2010. The NRP®-designed handbook incorporates the 2010 American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) and American Heart Association's joint guidelines for cardiopulmonary resuscitation and emergency cardiovascular care.

The 2010 guidelines were developed by the AAP's Strategic Communication Panel on the Committee on Science and Treatment. The guidelines were developed by the International Liaison Committee on Resuscitation (ILCOR) of the International Consensus Conference on Resuscitation (ILCOR) Resuscitation Guidelines. The new guidelines were published in Pediatrics and Critical Care and can be found in the 2010 NRP® Handbook. For more information about the 2010 NRP® guidelines, refer to the article that appeared in the July/August 2009 issue of Journal Instructor Update. The complete guidelines can be accessed at <http://resuscitation.org/2010guidelines.aspx?language=2010&edition=2010&page=1>.

The revised handbook has nine chapters, each with new content updates that are also integrated into the accompanying interactive multimedia handbook (IMH). The NRP® Flow Diagram has changed in a variety of ways. Previously, the algorithm flow has been simplified, with a greater focus on assessing positive pressure ventilation, breath timing, and compressions.

2010 NRP® Test Preparation Toolkit (TPT)

PLACE THE TEST PREPARATION TOOLKIT ON YOUR DESKTOP TO ACCESS THE TEST PREPARATION MATERIALS AND RESOURCES INCLUDING THE EXAMINEE GUIDE AND TEST BANK.

"One of the most significant content updates is the expansion of topics relating to the use of supplemental oxygen during resuscitated resuscitation. This topic is covered in chapter 3-2 on the handbook and specifically addresses the oxygen delivery algorithm." (American Heart Association, 2010). Both of the Handbook of Resuscitation Resources (2010) and IMH editions are used in the 2010 edition.

"In the 6th Edition, we recommended the use of 100% oxygen during resuscitation because sufficient evidence for the contrary was not available at the time." (used by permission, Professor of Pediatrics at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor). "Resuscitation is best achieved with oxygen, based on current evidence with 100% supplemental oxygen is probably the best approach. It is unclear that oxygenated blood is more useful than air. The latest evidence tells us we should be very careful of this." (used by permission, professor teaching pediatric resuscitation and oxygen therapy strategies to emergency nurses and pediatric providers in high-risk scenarios for use of supplemental oxygen, written consensus verification, no evidence-positive evidence consensus (CPRNPs) per individualized resuscitation).

Supplemental oxygen delivery strategies, including pulse oximetry and oxygen saturation strategies in emergency areas and pediatric emergency resuscitation scenarios for use of supplemental oxygen, written consensus verification, no evidence-positive evidence consensus (CPRNPs) per individualized resuscitation).

Sobol,2015-01-07 Disorders of the Neonatal Airway serves as a comprehensive multidisciplinary resource for all practitioners who care for neonates with airway disorders With the evolution of advances in neonatology and neonatal airway care over the past three decades the survival rate and life expectancy of premature newborns have dramatically increased to well over 50% in 24-25 week gestation infants. Unfortunately, survival with long term intubation has brought a corresponding increase in acquired airway disorders needing collaborative high level neonatal and otolaryngological care. Additionally, with the advent of fetal therapy, congenital airway disorders now make up a substantial number of neonates with complex airway disorders. Because of this fact, there has been increased focus on the multidisciplinary evaluation and management of neonatal airway disorders. The book is organized into three sections: the first focuses on Malformations and Deformations, the second focuses on Assessment, Evaluation, and Treatment, and the third discusses Education, Simulation, and Quality. As one of the only comprehensive resources on the topic, Disorders of the Neonatal Airway focuses on a multidisciplinary approach to the neonatal airway. This unique approach makes this reference a must-read for practitioners from many disciplines.
