

Health and family members. From the perspective of Responsible Patients, health can be improved by the care of skilled health professionals, patient-centered care by health professionals, family support, and the growing and flourishing of a healthy health system. From the perspective of Health Consumers, the patients and patients' rights, equity, transparency, accountability and respect for patient autonomy, and health professionals' responsibility for patient-centered care are important. From the perspective of Health Professionals, the health system, family, and health professionals are important. By the Responsible Patients, health and health services are important, and the patients emphasize the great importance of continuity of care in long-term patient health system.

Results from the 2000 National Survey of the Health and Nutrition Examination Survey (NHANES) and the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey (NHANES) 2003-2004 show that approximately 40% of American adults have hypertension (NHANES, 2005).

The recommendations for treatment of hypertension are a combination of pharmacological and non-pharmacological interventions, including the approaches:
