- iii. Shows that the government's reform strategy has chosen to implement the fiscal part of its reform plan to support the economic and social development of the 100 major cities and provinces through the largest and most active general urban enterprises.
- iv. Shows that the plan has chosen a systematic and integrated urban management and living environment management, the government has given up its planning and management of living environment management to the market. Enterprises become the main body of urban management and environmental management. Through the market mechanism, the government has given up its planning and environmental management functions, making the government's intervention with regard to urban management gradually and continuously disappear. The government's intervention in urban management has been transformed into a government's intervention in the market's intervention in urban management.
