2014 Grade 12 Maths Literacy Paper:

Getting Evidence into Education Stephen Gorard, 2020-03-31 Worldwide there has been considerable progress in the quality of research evidence generated for use in education but not the equivalent growth in knowledge of how best to get this evidence into actual use. Yet with far reaching implications all of education is damaged when persuasive but poor quality evidence has widespread influence or good research lies unused. Focused on the work of the Durham University Evidence Centre for Education Getting Evidence into Education addresses this problem examining what can be done to improve the take up of suitable research evidence and inform the public service of education. Containing a variety of case studies from evidence based policies for early childhood education in Brazil to the use of evidence on contextualized admissions to Scottish universities the volume explores a variety of different ways to approach the problem addressing the questions What is the existing evidence on different approaches to getting research evidence into use? What are the factors which influence the uptake of high quality research evidence by policy or practice? Which are the most effective pathways for evidence into use in particular contexts? Considering both the practical and ethical implications the book builds towards key recommendations for the research community practitioner bodies and policy makers and advisors directing them on how to communicate better with each other for the benefit of everyone.

Mathematics, Affect and Learning Peter Grootenhuis, Margaret Marshman, 2015-10-17 This book examines the beliefs attitudes values and emotions of students in Years 5 to 8 aged 10 to 14 years about mathematics and mathematics education. Fundamentally this book focuses on the development of affective views and responses towards mathematics and mathematics learning. Furthermore it seems that students develop their more negative views of mathematics during the middle school years Years 5 to 8 and so here we concentrate on students in this critical period. The book is based on a number of empirical studies including an enquiry undertaken with 45 children in Years 5 and 6 in one school a large scale quantitative study undertaken with students from a range of schools across diverse communities in New Zealand and two related small scale studies with junior secondary students in Australia. This book brings substantial empirically based evidence to the widely held perception that many students have negative views of mathematics and these affective responses develop during the middle years of school. The data for this book were collected with school students and students who were actually engaged in learning mathematics in their crucial middle school years. The findings reported and discussed here are relevant for researchers and mathematics educators policy makers and curriculum developers and teachers and school principals engaged in the teaching of mathematics.
