Language by mouth and by hand Iris Berent, Susan Goldin-Meadow, 2015-05-11 While most natural languages rely on speech humans can spontaneously generate comparable linguistic systems that utilize manual gestures. This collection of papers examines the interaction between natural language and its phonetic vessels human speech or manual gestures. We seek to identify what linguistic aspects are invariant across signed and spoken languages and determine how the choice of the phonetic vessel shapes language structure its processing and its neural implementation. We welcome rigorous empirical studies from a wide variety of perspectives ranging from behavioral studies to brain analyses diverse ages from infants to adults and multiple languages both conventional and emerging home signs and sign languages

The Uncanny Valley

Hypothesis and Beyond Marcus Cheetham, 2018-05-02 A field of theory and research is evolving around the question highlighted in the Uncanny Valley Hypothesis. How does high realism in anthropomorphic design influence human experience and behaviour? The Uncanny Valley Hypothesis posits that a very humanlike character or object e.g. robot prosthetic limb, doll can evoke a negative affective i.e. uncanny state. Recent advances in robotic and computer graphic technologies in simulating aspects of human appearance, behaviour and interaction have been accompanied therefore by theorising and research on the meaning and relevance of the Uncanny Valley Hypothesis for anthropomorphic design. Current understanding of the uncanny idea is still fragmentary and further original research is needed. However, the emerging picture indicates that the relationship between humanlike realism and subjective experience and behaviour may not be as straightforward as the Uncanny Valley Hypothesis suggests. This Research Topic brings together researchers from traditionally separate domains including robotics, computer graphics, cognitive science, psychology and neuroscience to provide a snapshot of current work in this field. A diversity of issues and questions are addressed in contributions that include original research, review, theory and opinion papers

Biographical Research Ana Caetano, Magda

Nico,2022-03-30 Studying people's lives requires acknowledging the multiple entanglements between individual singularity and processes of social patterning. This book testifies how challenging and creative the study of these connections can be. It gathers international contributions that show in imaginative ways how a person's life or specific domains of existence can be observed, tackled and analysed across time. This volume reveals the potential of biographical research in the production of social theory in the development of methodological innovation in giving voice and protagonism to people and in the understanding of the social unfolding of their lives. It is a testimony of a vibrant and youthful field with a long tradition in social sciences and with numerous connections with other study areas, namely the life course approach. The different chapters illustrate how the challenges posed by this type of research focused on the individual level of analysis are particular and what creative responses are required to continue analysing the link between biography and society. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Contemporary Social Science.

Pakistan's National Security Approach and Post-Cold War Security Arshad Ali,2021-03-31 This book analyzes the paradox that despite being a national security state, Pakistan has become even more insecure in the post Cold War era. It provides an in depth analysis of Pakistan's foreign and security policies and their implications for the overall state and society. The book identifies the immediate security challenges to Pakistan and charts the distinctive evolution of Pakistan's national security state in which the military elite became the dominant actor in the political sphere of government during and after the Cold War period. By examining the national security state, militarization, democracy and security proxy wars and the hyper military industrial complex, the author illustrates how the vanguard role of the military created considerable structural, sociopolitical, economic and security problems in Pakistan. Furthermore, the author argues that the mismatch between Pakistan's national security stance and the transformed security environment has been facilitated and sustained by the embedded interests of the country's military industrial complex. A critical evaluation of the role of the military in the political affairs of the government and how it has created structural problems for Pakistan, this book will be of interest to academics in the field of South Asian Politics and Security, South Asian Foreign and Security Policy, International Relations, Asian Security and Cold War Studies.
