

A dark, moody photograph of a diverse group of young people in what appears to be a classroom or study group setting. In the foreground, a young man with a mustache and glasses is looking down at a book. Behind him, a young woman with dark hair is looking towards the camera. In the background, several other students are visible, some looking at the camera and others looking down at their work. An American flag is partially visible on the left side of the frame, adding a patriotic element to the scene.

To understand a school's values and priorities look at its schedule. When schedules do not meet the instructional needs of students the result is a pipeline from PreK through grade 12 that leaks students an outcome disproportionately experienced by students of color and other marginalized student groups. This practical and thoughtful guide demonstrates how school and district scheduling teams can become Architects of Equity highly effective teams who design schedules that reflect their commitment to student achievement and social emotional wellbeing. Including strategies to shift collective mindsets around scheduling organize and support teaching teams and ensure fiscal responsibility in scheduling. Equitable School Scheduling is a vital resource for secondary school leaders committed to dismantling systemic inequities inherent in school structures. Readers will learn how to Self assess site and or district data through a deep examination of the course of study site schedule's transcripts and graduation cohort outcomes. Design and implement an Equitable Core a guaranteed set of courses that all students experience as a part of a meaningful graduation. Prioritize underestimated and historically underserved students in the planning of the schedule. Equitable School Scheduling helps school and district administrators use scheduling as a tool to transform the leaky pipeline to graduation into a meaningful path to post secondary success for all students

Boom Craig Hall, Linden Gross, 2019-05-14 For decades the United States has been experiencing a shocking decline in the number of new business startups and it has gotten worse since the Great Recession. While new business formation in Silicon Valley New York and Boston is booming entrepreneurship in most of the country particularly rural regions is declining. Things are even worse for women and people of color. This is of paramount importance to the United States because startups account for all new net job growth champion innovation and strengthen our middle class. From the perspective of an entrepreneur with more than fifty years of experience in diverse industries from software to real estate to winemaking author Craig Hall provides his expert evaluation on the challenges facing entrepreneurs today. After careful analysis defining the current environment for startups Hall optimistically concludes with specific strategies for go getters to successfully bridge the opportunity gap. We can and must reverse these trends in order to level the playing field for entrepreneurs to safeguard the future of the American Dream
