been described for the user of this procedure to adapt discard depending on the particular application The Durability Test Methods section describes the detailed test procedures that may be used depending on type of fan equipment availability and end objective Each of the previous levels builds upon information derived from the previous level Engineering judgment is required as to the applicability of each level to a different vehicle environment or a new fan design This SAE Recommended Practice is applicable to medium and heavy duty trucks buses construction equipment industrial and agricultural equipment It does not necessarily include passenger cars and light trucks The usage of nonmetallic construction necessitates areas of evaluation not required by metallic designs Chief among these are temperature extremes moisture content impact resistance chemical attack material purity homogeneity and aging weathering Areas of evaluation affecting both metallic and nonmetallic fans but requiring somewhat different approaches with nonmetallic parts include natural frequency determination and durability testing The technical content of J1474 Heavy Duty Nonmetallic Engine Cooling Fans Material Manufacturing and Test Considerations has been incorporated so both metallic and nonmetallic fans are covered by this document Various spelling grammar and punctuation mistakes have been corrected Test Method for Measuring Performance of Engine Cooling Fans Cooling Systems Standards Committee, 2019 This SAE Recommended Practice is intended for use in testing and evaluating the approximate performance of engine driven cooling fans This performance would include flow pressure and power This flow and pressure information is used to estimate the engine cooling performance This power consumption is used to estimate net engine power per SAE J1349 The procedure also provides a general description of equipment necessary to measure the approximate fan performance The test conditions in the procedure generally will not match those of the installation for which cooling and fuel consumption information is desired The performance of a given fan depends on the geometric details of the installation including the shroud and its clearance These details should be duplicated in the test setup if accurate performance measurement is expected The performance at a given air density and speed also depends on the volumetric flow rate or the pressure rise across the fan since these two parameters are mutually dependent These parameters depend on the pressure drop across the radiator core and the ram pressure due to vehicle motion For these reasons the test procedure should be recognized as providing only an approximate measure of installed fan performance Although the test procedure is based on running the fan with a motoring dynamometer the actual installation can be used as a test fixture if an accurate torque meter is available In this case the same qualifications discussed apply For the effect of a fan clutch in reducing fan use and power consumption which is not a part of this procedure refer to SAE J1342 Performance testing of electric cooling fan assemblies is covered in SAE J2867 This document has been updated to improve readability and clarity and Figure 1 moved to its appropriate section
