Historical Question 1 is based on the accompanying documents. The documents have been arranged in the sequence of this question.

In your response you should do the following:

- Respond to the prompt with a historically plausible thesis or claim that constitutes a line of argument.
- Elaborate a broader historical context relevant to the prompt.
- Support an argument in response to the prompt using three documents.
- Use evidence to support historical claims beyond those found in the documents relevant to an argument.
- Use historical documents, evidence or why the documents prove or why they disprove historical claims in reference to an argument.
- Use evidence to corroborate, qualify or modify an argument that addresses the prompt.

1. Analyze the effects of American westward expansion on the Native American from 1800 – 1860.

Document 1

Source: Extract of the Report of the Secretary of the Interior, Indian Affairs, published in the New York Times, 1862.

It may well be apprehended whence the Government has no objection to a certain policy in regarding the Indians either as quasi-independent nations, and making treaties with them for the protection of the lands they claim to own. They have many of the elements of nationality; they are within the limits of the recognized territory of the United States, and need no separate or external protection. The rapid progress of civilization over the continent will not leave the lands which are required for public-works to be unoccupied by some tribe or another people. Indeed, whence ever to the shores, the Government has always demanded the removal of the Indians when there had been any question of agricultural progress by advancing civilization. Although the removal of the Indians has been effected in the form of treaties, it is well known that they have paid little attention which they could not avoid.
