A Confederate Girl's Diary Morgan Sarah Dawson,2008-09-01 Sarah's Story Kathleen R. Walls,Sarah M. (WRP) Dawson,2005-03-01 If you were the privileged daughter of a wealthy judge life in Louisiana in the years before the War Between the States was heavenly 1862 brought a crashing halt to the good times Life became hell on earth Federal officials singled you out for the harshest punishment because you were a known Rebel Rabid secessionists hated you if you didn t proclaim your hatred for the Yankees An intelligent young lady with brothers on both sides of the conflict was trapped in the middle of a war she never wanted Sarah Morgan s diary relives her joys and sorrows as she watches her home town sacked flees in the night to escape the exploding shells yet finds joy in trivial things Her tiny canary a gift from her brother is her favored pet Outings with friends and quiet family gatherings share her chronicle with the death of her two brothers Through it all Sarah recounts life as she lived it always against the backdrop of the war that took her from her life of privilege to refugee hovels As the war grinds to its final conclusion Sarah must take refuge with her older brother who has remained loyal to the union No account of this time is more poignant and more reveling of the real life of those who kept the home fires burning

A Confederate Girl's Diary ,1913 A Confederate Girl's Diary Sarah Morgan Dawson,2012-11-11 It is perhaps due to a chance conversation held some seventeen years ago in New York that this Diary of the Civil War was saved from destruction A Philadelphian had been talking with my mother of North and South and had alluded to the engagement between the Essex and the Arkansas on the Mississippi as a brilliant victory for the Federal navy My mother protested at once said that she and her sister Miriam and several friends had been witnesses from the levee to the fact that the Confederates had fired and abandoned their own ship when the machinery broke down after two shots had been exchanged the Federals cautiously turning the point had then captured but a smoking hulk The Philadelphian gravely corrected her history it appeared had consecrated on the strength of an official report the version more agreeable to Northern pride But I wrote a description of the whole just a few hours after it occurred my mother insisted Early in the war I began to keep a diary and continued until the very end I had to find some vent for my feelings and I would not make an exhibition of myself by talking as so many women did I have written while resting to recover breath in the midst of a stampede I have even written with shells bursting over the house in which I sat ready to flee but waiting for my mother and sisters to finish their preparations If that record still existed it would be invaluable said the Philadelphian We Northerners are sincerely anxious to know what Southern women did and thought at that time but the difficulty is to find authentic contemporaneous evidence All that I for one have seen has been marred by improvement in the light of subsequent events You may read my evidence as it was written from March 1862 until April 1865 my mother declared impulsively At our home in Charleston on her return she unstitched with trembling hands a linen bound parcel always kept in her tall cedar lined wardrobe of curled walnut On it was scratched in ink To be burned unread after my death it contained she had once told me a record of no interest save to her who had written it and lacked the courage to re read it a narrative of days she had lived of joys she had lost of griefs accepted of vain hopes cherished A Confederate Girl's Diary \(Esprios Classics\) Sarah Morgan Dawson, 2021-05-24 It is perhaps due to a chance Dawson, Warrington Dawson, 2015-02-04 Nineteenth century Louisiana writer Sarah Morgan Dawson is best known for the diary she kept during the Civil War. From March 1862 until April 1865 Dawson chronicled her thoughts and experiences providing one of the most detailed accounts of civilian life in wartime Louisiana. A gifted storyteller Dawson recorded her feelings about the Confederacy war politics, refugee life and women's place in society against the backdrop of Louisiana's invasion and occupation by Union troops. Born in New Orleans on February 28, 1842, Sarah Ida Fowler Morgan was the seventh child of Judge Thomas Gibbes Morgan and his second wife Sarah Hunt Fowler. In 1850 the family relocated to Baton Rouge where Thomas worked as a district attorney and later a district judge. After less than a year of formal education Dawson studied under the tutelage of her mother at the family home on Church Street. Her comfortable home life began to unravel at the beginning of the Civil War. Civil War Diary. In April 1861 Dawson's brother Henry Waller Fowler Morgan died in a duel. Later the same year her father who opposed secession but supported his state once it seceded died at home. When Dawson began her diary in January 1862 she was still mourning the loss of her kin in addition to the departure of her three remaining brothers Thomas Gibbes Jr, George Mather and James Morris Morgan to the Confederate army and navy. In Baton Rouge with her mother and sisters Dawson recorded the scarcity of food and household items as a result of the Union blockade remarking that Confederate amounted to anything that was rough, unfinished, unfashionable or poor. In April 1862 David Glasgow Farragut captured New Orleans and by May the Federal onslaught on Baton Rouge had begun in earnest. With her running bag packed and her personal papers piled on her bed ready to burn Dawson used her diary to record a warning to any Federal soldier who attempted to Butlerize or brutalize her in the attack. I will show you the use of a small seven
