that cut across the southern Africa region Colonialism dispossessed and impoverished the people by taking away the most productive lands Neoliberal globalization has undermined the people's well being through direct influences on agriculture and rural economies in conjunction with policies promoted by national governments and international agencies Another shared feature is to be found in the high rates of unemployment poor returns to small scale agriculture lack of access to social services such as health and education all of which serve to erode existing livelihood activities and perpetuate relative and absolute poverty in rural areas This comparative study on Zimbabwe's agrarian reforms may provide countries such as South Africa and Namibia with valuable lessons as they attempt their own land reforms Conflicts between colonialists and the indigenous people in the then Rhodesia centred mainly on the land question This inequitable distribution of land resulted in Africans waging liberation struggles in order to reclaim their land from the colonialists In most post colonial countries calls have been made for land redistribution as a way of redressing colonial injustices in land tenure systems The process of reclamation of land and redistributing it to the indigenous people is fraught with problems and has resulted in the present day land crisis in many parts of Africa and other continents These are some of the issues this book examines attempts to understand and explain from a gender perspective Gender relations are viewed in terms of land use and ownership in pre colonial colonial and post colonial Zimbabwe These socially constructed roles have been found to be unequal in terms of power and decision making It is argued that lessening of social inequalities between men and women reduces poverty raises farm efficiency and improves natural resource management The book emphasizes that once women are empowered the quality of life of their households improves
