Identifying agricultural expenditures within the public financial accounts and coding system in Ghana Benin, Samuel, 2014-08-25 This paper is part of four country case studies that take a detailed look at public expenditures in agriculture and at how the data on expenditures are captured in government financial and budget accounts The objective of these studies is to unpack the black box of public expenditure statistics reported in various cross country datasets and ultimately to enable the use of existing government accounts to identify levels and compositions of government agriculture expenditures with better understanding of what these data are in fact accounting for 21st Century Homestead:

Sustainable Agriculture I Marlon Henkel, 2015-02-22 21st Century Homestead Sustainable Agriculture I contains the first part of everything you need to stay up to date on sustainable agriculture Sustainable Groundwater Development for Improved Livelihoods in Sub-Saharan Africa Paul Pavelic, Karen G. Villholth, Shilp Verma, 2023-05-08 This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the benefits and challenges of intensifying groundwater irrigation in Sub Saharan Africa SSA for improving smallholder agrarian livelihoods Only about 3% of the groundwater resources of Sub Saharan Africa are used for irrigated agriculture despite the subcontinent's relative abundance of groundwater The majority of the region's smallholders are highly dependent on seasonal dryland cropping making them extremely vulnerable to uncertain weather patterns and droughts Improved irrigation capabilities through sustainable groundwater development could unleash smallholder farming and make it a major driver of economic growth poverty reduction climate resilience and improved food security So why is groundwater so underused Tapping into groundwater requires a major shift in farming practices and it has its own challenges and requirements smallholder access to land and finance for irrigation infrastructure and equipment gendered and equitable adoption options This whole list is framed in terms of what the smallholder farmers need Hence this should also be put in this context supply chains energy access resource availability and institutional support The chapters in this book present a picture that is not only heterogeneous across the region but also hold some common denominators They serve to enrich the discourse and help better understand the barriers along the pathways toward the sustainable and transformative adoption of groundwater irrigation The scientific information provided herein would be of interest to researchers practitioners decision makers and planners with interest in the region This book was originally published as a Special Issue of Water International journal 21st Century Homestead: Urban Agriculture Douglas Waterford,2015-02-21 21st Century Homestead Urban Agriculture contains everything you need to stay up to date on urban agriculture

Transforming Food and Agricultural Policy Carsten Daugbjerg,Peter Feindt,2019-12-18 Western democratic welfare states often featured sectoral governance arrangements where governments negotiated policy with sectoral elites based on shared ideas and exclusive institutional arrangements Food and agriculture policy is widely considered an extreme case of compartmentalized and exceptionalist policy making where sector specific policy ideas and institutions provide privileged access for sectoral interest groups and generate policies that benefit their members In the last two decades policy exceptionalism has been under pressure from internationalization of policy making increasing interlinkage of policy areas and trends towards self regulation liberalization and performance based policies This book introduces the concept of post exceptionalism to characterize an incomplete transformation of exceptionalist policies and politics which preserves significant exceptionalist features Post exceptional constellations of ideas institutions interests and policies can be complementary and stable or tense and unstable Food and agriculture policy serves as an example to illustrate an incomplete transformation towards a more open contested and networked politics Chapters on agricultural policy making in the European Union and the United States the politics of food in Germany and the United Kingdom transnational organic standard setting and global food security debates demonstrate how postexceptionalism helps to understand the co existence of transformation and path dependency in contemporary public policies The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of European Public Policy Migration and Agriculture Alessandra Corrado,Carlos de Castro,Domenico Perrotta,2016-07-28 In recent years Mediterranean agriculture has experienced important transformations which have led to new forms of labour and production and in particular to a surge in the recruitment of migrant labour The Mediterranean Basin represents a very interesting arena that is able to illustrate labour conditions and mobility the competition among different farming models and the consequences in terms of the proletarianization process food crisis and diet changes Migration and Agriculture brings together international contributors from across several disciplines to describe and analyse labour conditions and international migrations in relation to agri food restructuring processes This unique collection of articles connects migration issues with the proletarianization process and agrarian transitions that have affected Southern European as well as some Middle Eastern and Northern African countries in different ways The chapters present case studies from a range of territories in the Mediterranean Basin offering empirical data and theoretical analysis in order to grasp the complexity of the processes that are occurring This book offers a uniquely comprehensive overview of migrations territories and agro food production in this key region and will be an indispensable resource to scholars in migration studies rural sociology social geography and the political economy of agriculture
