The Hittite Demonstratives Petra Goedegebuure, 2014

In order to mitigate the lack of context inherent to the study of dead languages, the author has developed a descriptive model that combines a cognitive approach to reference, a theory of information structure, and c) typological studies on demonstratives. With the help of this model, the author not only provides for the first time a thorough description of the long-known demonstratives ka (this) and apa (that), but also identifies a third demonstrative asi (yonder). This identification has led to a reappraisal of the distal semantics of apa: apa does not mark remote objects at all, but points at objects in the vicinity of the addressee. In short, the Hittite demonstratives are not distance but person-based. As a third person pronoun, apa also expresses emphasis. A detailed analysis within the framework of information structure shows, for example, that apa in preverbal position marks a referent as the Contrastive Focus of its clause: in the dog not the cat chased the horse, dog is in Contrastive Focus. Non-contrastive focal apa on the other hand always occurs in initial position. The addition of information structure to the grammatical description of Hittite thus provides a better understanding of the meaning effects of word order variation in this SOV language.
