Approaching Girls S:

A Restorative Approach to Family Violence Anne Hayden, Loraine Gelsthorpe, Allison Morris, 2016-03-16 This volume provides an essential update on current thinking practice and research into the use of restorative justice in the area of family violence It contains contemporary empirical theoretical and practical perspectives on the use of restorative justice for intimate partner and family violence including sexual violence and elder abuse Whilst raising issues relating to the implications of reporting it provides a fresh look at victims issues as well as providing accounts of those who have participated in restorative justice processes and who have been victims of abusive relationships Contributions are included from a wide range of perspectives to provide a balanced approach that is not simply polemic or advocating Rather the book genuinely raises the issue for debate with the advantage of bringing into the open new research which has not been widely published previously Given its unique experience in the development of restorative justice the book includes empirical studies relating to New Zealand contextualized within the global situation by the inclusion of perspectives on practices in the UK Australia and North America This book will be key reading for people who work with violent offending of a family nature as well as for those who are interested in the study of family violence

Capital, capabilities and culture: a human development approach to student and school transformation Cliona Hannon, 2020-01-15 This book applies the capability approach as an evaluative lens through which to explore the range of capabilities that emerged over a three year period through the Trinity Access 21 College for Every Student TA21 CFES higher education access project in four schools Qualitative analysis is presented from a longitudinal study of four schools over a three year period drawing on data from four student focus groups involving 21 student participants and 14 individual student interviews An additional sixteen school personnel contributed in interviews There are three main findings first specific student capabilities emerge because of their engagement in the TA21 CFES core practices of Leadership Mentoring and Pathways to College These are autonomy practical reason college knowledge identity social relations and networks and hope Second students encounter a range of inhibiting social conversion factors in developing capabilities and persisting with higher education aspirations These are the negative pull of peer relations pressure related to the Junior Certificate limited subject choice and conflicting family expectations Third it is the combination of their own emerging capability set along with a network of trusted relationships with others that enables them to overcome potentially corrosive disadvantage and translate their experiences into fertile functionings It is proposed that these findings have national and international relevance for widening participation interventions The research makes a methodological contribution as it is the first use of qualitative longitudinal research QLR in Ireland within a lived project aimed at working class students over a three year period It contributes empirically as it provides new knowledge about the impact of interventions aimed at developing students capability set and how these might help them to develop navigational capital and post secondary educational aspirations It also makes a conceptual contribution to how we frame the design and evaluation of impact of widening participation initiatives as it takes a capability approach to considering how students develop higher education aspirations over time towards what they consider a life of value It is useful to researchers practitioners and policy makers who are interested in taking an evidence based approach to developing higher education access programmes Autotelic Learning: A New Learning Approach For Students Of Elementary Classes R.B.L.
