Greenhouse Gas and Nitrogen Fertilizer Scenarios for U.S. Agriculture and Global Biofuels, 2011 A key to understanding the results of this fourth scenario is that in the absence of tax credits and duties the mandate drives biofuel use Therefore when the tax credits and duties are reintroduced the impacts are relatively small In general the results show that the entire international commodity market system is remarkably robust with respect to policy changes in one country or in one sector The policy implication is that domestic policy changes implemented by a large agricultural producer like the United States can have fairly significant impacts on the aggregate world commodity markets A second point that emerges from the results is that the law of unintended consequences is at work in world agriculture For example a U S nitrogen tax that might presumably be motivated for environmental benefit results in an increase in world greenhouse gas emissions
