Training Behaviour Therapists (Psychology Revivals) Derek Milne, 2015-03-27 Originally published in 1986 one of the major developments in behavioural psychotherapy and mental health in the previous decade had been the growing involvement of non psychologists in behaviour therapy. This was a result of the fact that there were too few psychologists to cope with problem behaviour and that other professionals or carers began to appreciate more clearly their potential as agents of behaviour change. Foremost among these mediators of therapy were parents, nurses particularly psychiatric nurses and teachers especially remedial teachers. Their involvement had greatly increased the efficiency of behaviour therapy at the time and opened up a new era in applied psychology. It also entailed the development of new training formats, evaluation procedures and implementation strategies. The main aim of this book was to provide a summary of the research relevant to these issues and to offer practical guidelines to those who were interested in training or being trained as behaviour therapists. For this reason there are chapters by researchers who have been involved in training parents, nurses and teachers. These chapters provide a detailed account of training in a form that was rarely available in published form at the time and even today should be of great assistance to readers. Applying Behavior-analysis Procedures with Children and Youth Beth Sulzer-Azaroff, G. Roy Mayer, 1977

Resources in Education , 1984 Conceptualizing, Designing, Implementing, and Evaluating Writing Interventions , 2023-10-20 This book takes a fresh look at the challenge of setting up educational writing intervention studies in authentic class contexts. In four sections the book offers innovative approaches on how to conceptualize, design, implement and evaluate writing interventions for research purposes. Hot topics in the field such as professional development for scaling up writing interventions, building research-practice partnerships, implementation variation and fidelity and response to intervention are addressed. To illustrate the proposed approaches for writing promotion, the book showcases a wide variety of writing interventions from around the world ranging from single participant designs to large scale intervention studies in writing. Teaching Psychology James Hartley, Wilbert James McKeachie, 1990 This publication is the first to cover the entire field of teaching psychology and includes teaching methods, advising and curriculum planning as well as special problems in teaching laboratory and statistics courses. The articles selected provide thought-provoking reading for an international readership. Each of twelve subject-oriented sections contains a brief introduction, five articles and suggested further readings for those wishing to pursue a particular topic in more detail.
