expressing Blake's own intensely personal Romantic and revolutionary beliefs. Like his other books, it was published as printed sheets from etched plates containing prose poetry and illustrations. The plates were then coloured by Blake and his wife Catherine. Blake's theory of contraries was not a belief in opposites but rather a belief that each person reflects the contrary nature of God and that progression in life is impossible without contraries. Moreover, he explores the contrary nature of reason and of energy, believing that two types of people existed: the energetic creators and the rational organizers, or as he calls them in The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, the devils and angels. Both are necessary to life according to Blake. Blake's text has been interpreted in many ways. It certainly forms part of the revolutionary culture of the period. The references to the printing house suggest the underground radical printers producing revolutionary pamphlets at the time. Ink blackened printworkers were comically referred to as a printer's devil, and revolutionary publications were regularly denounced from the pulpits as the work of the devil.

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell William Blake (Dichter, Kupferstecher, Maler, England), 1795
The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (Text and Facsimiles) William Jr. Blake, 2010-07-12
No work has challenged its readers like Blake's The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. The Proverbs of Hell have been culled for the slogans of student protest and have become axioms of modern thought: iconoclastic, bizarre, unprecedented. It is all of these. Most extraordinary is the revolutionary method of its making. The Bodleian Library copy is one of the first that Blake printed using the method he called illuminated printing, and the only work in which he signifies its importance. This new edition includes a complete facsimile of the work together with a transcript and a plate-by-plate guide to the text, the interlinear figures, and the larger designs. In a special comparative section, the same plate from each of the other eight surviving copies is also reproduced. Publisher's description, p. 4 of cover.

The Marriage of Heaven and Hell William Blake, 2021-01-22
William Blake was born in London to a working-class family. His father, a hosier, provided for his training in drawing and engraving, practical skills which he would use to support himself and his wife Catherine for the rest of his life. One of six children, Blake claimed to have received angelic visitations and other visionary experience even as a child. After his brother Robert's death, William said that Robert often appeared to him, providing him with practical information such as an acid wash engraving system that William used to produce his illuminated or illustrated works, including The Marriage of Heaven and Hell. Never financially successful as an artist or writer, he was often reduced to drudge work such as engraving drawings for the catalog of the Wedgwood China Company. From 1800 to 1803, Blake received the patronage of minor poet William Hayley; however, the experience proved bitter and demeaning to the independent-minded Blake. During this period, the fiery-tempered Blake was also accused of treason after evicting a drunken soldier from his garden with the epithet "God d the King, Blake, who was eventually acquitted of the charge, transmuted the twin ordeal of patronage and accusation into his masterpieces Vala or The Four Zoas (1795-1804, pb 1963, best known as The Four Zoas) and Jerusalem: The Emanation of the Giant Albion (1804-1820). Two concepts are key to understanding The Marriage of Heaven and Hell and Blake's idiosyncratic form of Christianity: First, as articulated in his classic Songs of Innocence and of Experience 1794 is the notion of contraries or opposing forces similar to the Daoist notion of yin and yang Blake saw all life as a necessary interplay of opposites The Argument of The Marriage of Heaven and Hell applies this notion of the contraries to orthodox Christian dogma As Without Contraries is no progression Attraction and Repulsion Reason and Energy Love and Hate are necessary to Human existence The Marriage of
